OPA Bill Passage Looms Despite Filibuster Threat

WASHINGTON, June 26—(UP)—Administration leaders in the Senate reluctantly threw their support behind the OPA extension bill Wednesday night, but a flood of oratory and the threat of a filibuster by Sen. W. Lee "Pappy" O'Daniel, Democrat, Texas, blocked a final vote on the measure.

The Senate recessed at 6 p. m., EST, without reaching the roll-call vote that even die-hard OPA partisans admitted would send the bill to the White House with all its sharp restrictions on the pricing agency.

Passage of the House-approved legislation had been regarded as a foregone conclusion after Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley, Kentucky, announced he would vote for it as the only alternative to letting all price controls die with the old law at midnight Sunday.

WILL URGE SIGNING

Barkley said he would urge President Truman to sign the bill, despite what he called its obvious imperfections and against the recommendations of the Administration's top stabilization bosses.

Before a vote could be taken, however, several Senators won the floor and branched off into long dissertations on topics outside the price control field. When the session recessed, Sen. Glen Taylor still held the floor, speaking on racial discrimination.

Simultaneously, O'Daniel announced he intended to speak "at length" on the OPA bill, and he told reporters he had enough material on his desk to continue talking until Monday—beyond the deadline for expiration of the existing law.

FINAL VOTE TODAY

Barkley insisted, however, that a final vote could be taken Thursday. He said he did not expect O'Daniel to speak for more than two hours, in spite of his filibuster threat, and that he would hold the Senate to a night session if necessary.

Barkley appeared confident the bill would be passed and sent to the White House by Thursday night.

His words duplicated those with which Speaker Sam Rayburn, Democrat, Texas, helped speed the bill through the House Tuesday, and they were taken as a clear hint that President Truman has decided against the urging of his stabilization advisers and will sign it.

Barkley told the Senate he regarded the measure as "better than nothing" and that he would recommend that the President accept it.

"I shall urge that it become the law," he said.

THROWS IN SPONGE

Sen. Sheridan Downey, Democrat, California, a red-hot partisan fighter for a strong OPA, threw in the sponge with Barkley.

He announced glumly that he would support the compromise bill because he was unwilling to see price control die completely, although he feared the measure would plunge the country into inflation.

The Barkley-Downey move knocked the last props out from under a Republican-led coalition which had been fighting to recommit the entire bill to a House-Senate conference and have OPA's few remaining powers killed.

Sen. Kenneth S. Wherry, Republican, Nebraska, sparkplug of the coalition, conceded defeat after engaging in acrimonious debate with three pro-OPA New Deal Senators—James E. Murray, Democrat, Montana; Claude A. Pepper, Democrat, Florida, and Joseph F. Guffey, Democrat, Pennsylvania.

Murray and Pepper walked out in the midst of Wherry's speech. But Guffey remained and the Nebraskan turned his fire on him.

Addressing himself direct to Guffey, he said he was sure the Pennsylvanian would vote for the

Meat Here in 30 Days But Dear---If OPA Dies

By DORIS LOCKERMAN.

It will take about 30 days for beef to come from under the counter in American meat markets if OPA price controls are killed in Congress.

When it reappears it will be priced considerably higher. Nobody knows how much. It will compete with the present black market prices . . . in case anybody knows what they are.

The day OPA is wiped out, the black market in meat will end. It can't stand legality.

If price controls are continued (and that squeal you hear is from the wholesale packers screaming against them), things will go on in the meat business, just as they have been going . . . only more so.

There will be less and less for those who buy legitimately at price ceilings. There will be more and more sold in those hastily-wrapped little packages by "understanding" salespeople.

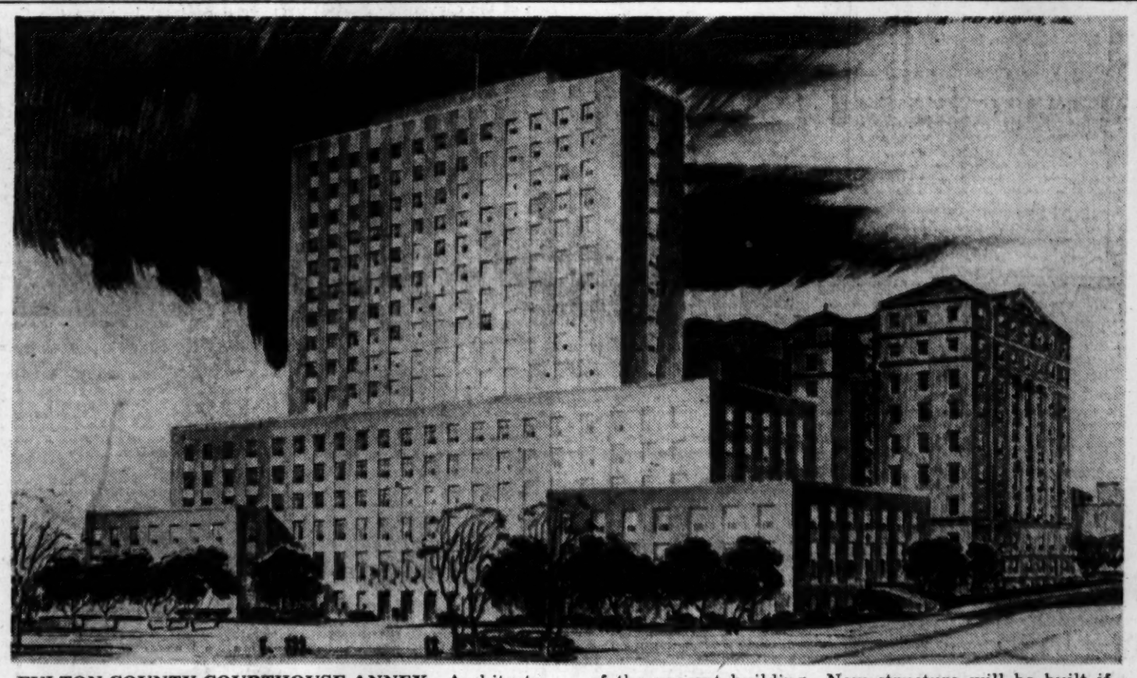

This is the picture. Farmers are holding out for the highest prices. The buyer for big packing houses cannot offer any price above ceiling. He can't stand to be a law violator. The little individual buyer can offer anything he wants to. Who will check up on him . . . if he bothered to keep records?

If OPA ends, there will be some high-jinx going on in the meat business whether the consumer gets wind of it or not. It will be a "crazy" market, behind the scenes, with the representatives of big companies getting out their folding money to bid it out, at last, in stock pens, and on farms, with their illegitimate competitors.

When the pipelines of legitimate markets are once more primed, the black marketeer will be through. From then on competition, swayed by that old economic formula, supply and demand, will set the price of meat.

The wholesale packers, ducking the rumor they are holding out millions of tons of good meat till the day the prices are lifted, say it isn't so and don't blame them for meatless America. They say they have been grossly libelled by an "unenforceable rule" by the Government which penalizes legitimate buyers for the benefit of the illegitimate slaughterers and has caught them in a squeeze play that

FULTON COUNTY COURTHOUSE ANNEX—Architects yesterday showed to the Fulton County Commission the result of two years' work planning an annex at the rear of the present building. New structure will be built if the $20,000,000 bond issue is voted at the Aug. 14 primary at a cost of approximately $4,000,000.

Courthouse Annex Plan Is Studied

Commission Accepts $4,000,000 Proposal; Up to Bond Issue Vote

The Fulton County Commission saw for the first time yesterday plans for the proposed $4,000,000 annex to the present courthouse and accepted them for further study.

The plans were drawn up by the associated architectural firms of Barili & Humphries and Toombs & Creighton, which began work on them after being commissioned to do so in 1944.

Erection of the annex is conditional to the passage of the $20,000,000 Fulton County bond issue to be voted on Aug. 14.

Plans for the annex were explained to the Commission by J. W. Humphreys and W. J. Creighton. The building facing Central Avenue in the rear of the present courthouse will be the east-west axis of the proposed civic center planned for the section that includes the City Hall and the Capitol. Present buildings on part of the site, including the Juvenile Court, will be eliminated.

Creighton stated he had consulted with all County departments regarding their requirements as to space and most convenient location of their offices. The structure will be 16 stories, with two setbacks. The old building, with which the new will be connected by passageways, will be devoted primarily to courts, the Clerk of Courts and the Ordinary's offices.

Plans, Creighton continued, call for about 300,000 square feet. He said that County government needs in 1960 have been estimated and that the building should be sufficient for that date. The annex will include the Juvenile Court, with separate sections for good and bad offenders, a large cafeteria capable of accommodating 800 diners, a County manager's suite of offices, and a jail to hold 750 prisoners. Separate entrances will be provided for prisoners.

The first floor, said Creighton, will be built of granite and the remaining floors of limestone and the architects have recommended air conditioning for some sections. Eight elevators are indicated, including a service elevator and a prisoner's elevator. The top eight floors have been assigned to the County jail, and space on the building lot will provide for the parking of about 300 cars.

In his explanation, Creighton thanked Courtland Gilbert, planning admnilstrator, for his aid in estimating over-all requirements.

Big Four Stalemated On Trieste

PARIS, June 26—(AP)—The Foreign Ministers' Conference was called into session Wednesday to discuss Italian peace treaty issues including the key question of the disposition of Triete—the Adriatic city claimed by both Italy and Yugoslavia, but adjourned without a decision.

An American informant said the night session was scheduled at the request of Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov. The call for it came after the French press printed reports that Molotov was expecting an important message from Moscow which might bring a surprise development in the Trieste issue.

Earlier, vigorous American opposition balked an attempt by Molotov to write a special commercial status for Russia into the peace treaties for the Balkan nations.

American sources said Molotov had sought unsuccessfully to include in the Romanian Treaty a provision which would have exempted neighboring states, including Russia, from clauses requiring Romania to give all the Allies equal commercial status.

Agreement was reached by the conference on provisions requiring Romania to make restitution of looted Allied property but permitting her to negotiate directly and individually with interested nations. Informants said this clause was sent to the Deputy Ministers for redrafting.

The question of restoring industrial patents, literary and other rights in connection with the Romanian Treaty was shelved to permit an economic subcommittee to finish studies on the subject.

The ministers also shelved a three-point proposal by British Foreign Secretary Bevin on Danube navigation when Molotov asked for time to study it.

Molotov urged the deputies to wind up their work on the Finnish treaty for final approval by the

Dazed Dad of Slain Tots Found on Lonely Road

TAHOE CITY, Calif., June 26—(UP)—Vorhes Newton, 24-year-old glazier whose two baby girls were found dead in a ditch in San Mateo County, was picked up by a tourist Wednesday night wandering in a dazed condition along a mountain road near the Nevada border.

Constable Harry Johannsen said Newton was bruised, apparently "from a fall or accident" and was "unable to tell a coherent story."

This wild and desolate countryside, heart of the Motherlode country, is some 150 miles from San Mateo, Cal., where Newton disappeared Tuesday and where his two infant daughters were found with their skulls crushed in lonely Wagner's Canyon.

His wife, 21-year-old Lorraine, was also found Tuesday wandering in the same "dazed condition" in the canyon near where the babies were discovered.

When Newton could not be located a warrant was sworn out for his arrest.

Newton was picked up by P. A. Hawkins and wife, of Oceanside, Cal., who were driving back to their home over the Sierra Nevada Mountains.

Hawkins drove Newton to the office of Dr. Christian Petersen, of Tahoe Tavern. Hawkins said he had not recognized Newton from newspaper pictures, but "he looked like he needed help."

Dr. Petersen questioned Newton

Says Vice Still Bossed By Capone

CHICAGO, June 26—(UP)—A top-ranking official of the Internal Revenue Bureau, the agency that sent Scareface Al Capone to prison arrived by plane from Washington Wednesday as police investigated charges that Capone still rules the Chicago underworld and the gambling rackets in other cities.

E. Riley Campbell, head of a division of the Internal Revenue Bureau, conferred immediately with regional income tax officials and United States District Attorney J. Albert Woll.

It was believed they conferred about charges contained in a 25,000-word statement by James M. Ragen, Sr., wealthy racing information tycoon, who claimed Capone still directs gambling rackets. Woll declined to discuss the conference.

CITY TO 'CLEAN UP'

As the Federal officials met, Mayor Edward J. Kelly announced that Chicago police were "going in to clean gambling up."

Late Wednesday police released former State Sen. Dan Serritella, who was picked up Tuesday night on Ragen's charge that he was a political "fixer" for Capone's syndicate. Serritella was taken to Criminal Court for formal return of a writ of habeas corpus.

The 65-year-old Ragen, in the gambling business for years but who neither gambles, drinks nor smokes, has been fighting attempts of gangsters to muscle into the control of his racing news service. He was shot and wounded seriously Monday night by gunmen.

RAGEN TELLS ALL

He made his lengthy statement to the State's Attorney May 2 after a previous attempt on his life. The statement is unique in crime annals. It details the machinery of syndicated crime, names both prominent and notorious figures, claims a $600,000 payoff to politicians, and tells of the syndicate's efforts to take over gambling in New York, Chicago and other cities.

Ragen's charges prompted Federal authorities here to move for an investigation by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, an investigation which, if approved by

Atom Staff Betting Weather Will Halt Test

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

ABOARD USS MT. McKINLEY OFF BIKINI, June 26—(UP)—A top weather expert of Operations Crossroads said Wednesday there was a "good chance" the weather would permit the dropping of the atomic bomb within the first 10 days of July, but V. Adm. W. H. P. Blandy's staff officers were betting the weather would be unsuitable.

Except for this unknown quantity, everything was set for the gigantic $100,000,000 project designed to test the Navy's strength against the most powerful weapon known to man.

Maj. Delmar L. Crowson, 29, Glendale, Calif., weather expert of the Army Air Forces task group that will explode an atomic bomb, said "in the first 10 days of July, there should be two days during which the bomb could be dropped."

The schedule calls for the drop July 1.

"We have two major problems," said Maj. Crowson, "one is cloud coverage, and the other is prevailing winds. Because this is a test and because we must see exactly what we are doing, we must have as few low and middle clouds as possible.

"Because radioactivity generated by the atomic explosion is dangerous and can be carried by the winds, we would like to select a day in which the winds are uniformly from the same direction—preferably eastern—at all altitude levels."

Crowson, a veteran of B-29 combat operations from India and China and against Japan and Manchuria, pointed out that radioactive particles swept by winds could be deposited like rain upon unsuspecting fliers or on sea or ground personnel if unfavorable wind conditions existed.

United Press Correspondent Frank Bartholomew, aboard the USS Appalachian en route to Bikini, reported a lecture by Maj. John J. Slocum, an expert on radiological safety, warning of a possible "rain of death" on civilian populations if the atomic bomb was used unrestrictedly in wartime.

Maj. Slocum said rain falling through a cloud "containing dangerous radioactivity" could precipitate death in the form of radioactive particles on living beings underneath.

"The movement of this cloud is a matter of great concern to the safety staff of Operations Crossroads."

Wood Committee Hit For Klan Probe Lack

WASHINGTON, June 26—(UP)—Rep. Donald L. O'Toole, Democrat, New York, Wednesday assailed the House Committee on Un-American Activities for not investigating the Ku Klux Klan which he said "threatens the existence of 40,000,000 Catholics, Jews and Negroes."

He delivered his attack during debate on a Committee resolution asking the House to cite for contempt two officials of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship and one from the National Federation for Constitution Liberties. The accused are Corliss G. Lamont, son of Thomas W. Lamont, the Wall Street banker; Richard Morford, Director of the Council which young Lamont heads, and George Marshall, Chairman of the Liberties group.

Lamont was cited for contempt of the House on roll-call vote of 240 to 85. The Committee plans similar citations against Morford and Marshall, but the House adjourned after acting only on Lamont.

The Lamont case now goes to the District of Columbia Federal Attorney for prosecution.

The Committee is headed by Rep. John S. Wood, of Georgia.

O'Toole drew immediate reaction from Rep. John Rankin, Democrat, Mississippi, when he attacked the sincerity of the Committee.

Rankin yelled a parliamentary demand that O'Toole be silenced and that his words questioning Committee sincerity be stricken from the record. Speaker Sam Rayburn, Democrat, Texas, ruled "the remarks are offending." But on the motion of Rep. Vito Marcantonio, American-Labor, New York, O'Toole was permitted to continue.

O'Toole said repeated attempts had been made to get the Wood-Rankin Committee to investigate the Klan.

"It was and is an invisible order with no respect for law and order," he said. "The Governors of Georgia and Alabama have ordered investigations, but the Committee will not take cognizance of the fact that 40,000,000 people, Catholics, Jews and Negroes, find their existence threatened by the Klan. Why not face the facts that their future, lives and hopes are threatened."

The contempt resolution charged Lamont, Morford and George Marshall refused to produce records subpoenaed by the Wood-Rankin Committee.

Wood told the House the Committee had documents "indicating the American-Soviet Friendship Organization was engaged in highly un-American activities."

J. Parnell Thomas, Republican, New Jersey, described Lamont as "The key to the whole thing," and the most insidious propagandist for the Soviet Union."

Rep. Walter A. Lynch, Democrat, New York, said the record was "bare of facts."

Rankin interposed that at the time the Committee was investigating the three men, "Spies were in this country trying to steal the secrets of the atomic bomb."

Matsuoka Dies In Tokyo Isolation Ward

TOKYO, Thursday, June 27—(AP)—The death of American-educated Yosuke Matsuoka, former Foreign Minister, was announced today by the International Tribunal before which he was on trial with 27 other accused war criminals.

The 66-year-old defendant died in the isolation ward of Tokyo Imperial University Hospital. He had been suffering from tuberculosis, arthritis and other ailments.

A graduate of the University of Oregon, Matsuoka probably was best known as Japan's negotiator in the tripartite pact signed with Germany and Italy in 1940. He became Foreign Minister July 22, 1940.

Matsuoka was a veteran diplomat with long service overseas and became a member of the Japanese Diet (parliament) in 1930. He represented Japan at the League of Nations general meeting the same year. In August, 1935, he took over presidency of the South Manchurian Railway.

The Tribunal President, Sir William Webb, announced that Matsuoka's name would be stricken from the indictment as a result of his death, and all charges removed. At the request of defense counsel Franklin D. Warren, the Court ordered the body turned over to the family.

OPA Suits Hit Racketeering in Coast Lumber

SAN FRANCISCO, June 26—(UP)—The Office of Price Administration, cracking down on alleged lumber black marketing and racketeering that has skyrocketed home building prices and created an "artificial" housing shortage, filed suits Wednesday asking $9,000,000 in treble damages from 40 West Coast lumber concerns and building contractors.

The suits, ranging from injunction to above ceiling actions, charged that the contractors and lumbering concerns had engaged in every form of racketeering "for profit" from illegal upgrading of lumber to shipping lumber to dummy addresses to be held for secret "high price" sales.

OPA said the mass enforcement drive stemmed directly from "an aroused Congress" and from "the urging of United States Attorney General Tom Clark.

They were seeking, OPA said, to eliminate the illegal black marketeering which has left thousands of veterans and civilians without the new houses they need.

Robert Firm Awarded Contract For Pacific Housing Construction

Robert and Company, of Atlanta, and two other firms have been awarded a joint contract totaling $23,572,040 for the construction of housing at Honolulu, Guam and the Mariana Islands, it was announced by the Army Engineers in Washington yesterday.

The award was made in connection with a projected development of troop housing in the Philippines and Okinawa, the entire budget for construction announced for 1946 amounting to $72,000,000.

Jesse M. Shelton, President of Robert and Company, stated here that his company, which will be working with the Morrison-Knudsen Company, Inc., of Boise, Idaho, and the Peter Kiewit Sons, Inc., of Omaha, Neb., had been notified a few weeks ago that it was being considered for a cost plus a fixed fee contract for construction work in the Pacific. Work will begin immediately and last for a considerable time, he added.

Shelton said his Company's duties will be to act as architects and engineers on all expenditures made at Honolulu, Guam and the Marianas, including Christmas, Johnston, Midway, Wake and Kwajalein Islands.

Al G. Stanford, Vice President of Robert and Company, will have the program under his jurisdiction for the Atlanta firm, maintaining headquarters in Atlanta and branch offices in San Francisco, Honolulu and Guam, Shelton stated. On this project, Stanford will be working directly under Brig. Gen. L. D. Worsham, Chief of the Western Ocean Division of the Chief of Engineers Office in San Francisco.

"Stanford previously was controller of the $100,000,000 Naval base built by our Company at Corpus Christi, Texas, in 1940-43 and was resident General Manager in charge of the Bell Bomber Plant development at Marietta," Shelton said. "He is intimately acquainted with the approved methods of War Department construction programs and should ably represent us in this new development in the Pacific."

During the war, Robert and Company handled off-shore construction programs for the War and Navy Departments at Puerto Rico and Bermuda, as well as other large developments throughout the South running in excess of $600,000,000.

BATTEY HOSPITAL BUYS THREE FARMS TO PRODUCE FOOD FOR TUBERCULARS

ROME, June 26—(AP)—Battey State Hospital Wednesday purchased three farms, totaling 1,000 acres on the Oostanaula River, 10 miles from here.

The farms will be used to produce meat and dairy products for tuberculosis patients. Dr. Rufus Payne, Hospital Director, said one of the finest dairy herds in the country would be established, starting with 100 cows. Some of the animals will come from Alto, former site of the State's tuberculosis sanitarium.

The hospital also will set up a modern pasteurization plant.

Cost of the land was $86,250. The farms were bought from Ben C. Jackson, Joe M. Brown and Mrs. Mary E. Smith.

5,701 Georgians Lost Their Lives With Armed Forces During War

The names of 5,701 Georgians who gave their lives in World War II fill the Honor List just released by the War Department.

This, the first consolidated post-war casualty list, reports for the entire country 308,978 dead and missing among more than 10,000,000 men and women mobilized into the U. S. Army—a fatality rate of 2.98 percent.

Georgia, with 2.33 percent of the population of the United tates and possessions in 1940, contributed 2.06 percent of the total number who entered the Army. Of these men and women of Georgia who went to war 2.77 percent failed to return. This figure represents 1.85 precent of the total dead and missing.

Of the total 5,701 Georgia casualties, 3,043 were listed as killed in action. A total of 424 died of wounds received in combat, and 12 died of injuries, such as a broken neck in a fall, during combat.

A total of 1,884 Georgians died other than in battle. They were the victims of accidents or disease, for example. Then 320 were declared dead by the War Department, administratively determined to have died. This included men lost at sea or crashed in a burning plane. Only 18 men are still listed as missing.

New York, with the largest population and the largest contribution to the Army's strength, lost 31,215 persons, the greatest number of any State. The least populous State, Nevada, had the smallest number of deaths, 349.

Georgia placed seventeenth on the list of States in order of the number of casualties.

The list of casualties by Counties included one man from the now non-existent Campbell County.

The list shows that Fulton lost the most men with 883. Following in order are Chatham, 223; Muscogee, 207; Bibb, 160; Richmond, 138; DeKalb, 120, and Floyd, 115.

COURT'S MERCY FOR A HERO

Slayer of Wife's Death-March Lover Paroled

NEW YORK, June 26—(UP)—Capt. Archie B. Miller, handsome Texas war veteran who shot and killed his wife's lover in her apartment, was put on probation from one to 20 years Wednesday by a judge who called Mrs. Miller a cruel and faithless wife.

General Sessions Judge John S. Mullen said he did not believe the fatal shooting last Dec. 22 of Capt. Eugene Dale, Enid, Okla., survivor of the Bataan Death March, was premeditated.

"I am not going to punish you," Mullen said to the Bellevue, Tex., veteran "I am going to suspend sentence and put you on probation. I know you won five battle stars, but you did a terrible thing. You took a life. If you fail to adjust yourself, you will be punished for many years to come.

Miller pleaded guilty to second degree manslaughter in connection with the shooting. He refused to stand trial because he said he wished to spare his beautiful blonde wife any "shame" by testifying at his trial.

His wife, Mrs. Fay Hancock Miller, a Powers model, did not visit him during his six months' incarceration in Tombs prison.

"Miller has been cruelly treated by a faithless wife," Mullen said.

Immediately after hearing Mullen's verdict, Miller left for Governor's Island in answer to an Army AWOL warrant. He said he expected to be discharged immediately. After spending a few days in Westfield, N. J., with a sister, Mrs. Lorene Jackson, he will go to his parents' home in Los Angeles.

Asked if he would see his wife, Miller said: "I sure don't know. I'd rather not talk about it."

He appeared shaken and dazed after learning of his freedom.

"Judge Mullen is a fine man," he said. "I will endeavor to live up to the trust he has placed in me."

In Jonesboro, N. C., John T. Hancock, Mrs. Miller's father refused comment on Mullen's decision. Mrs. Miller, who had been visiting her father, left last week for an unrevealed destination.

'Big Jim' Folsom Outlines Plans for Liberalization

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., June 26—(AP)—Alabama is going to have its conservative roots dug out with a wide and sharp liberal rake, Democratic Nominee Governor "Big Jim" Folsom told the Daytona Beach Evening News Tuesday.

"I'm going a lot further than Gov. Ellis Arnall did in Georgia," declared colorful Folsom.

"I'm going to get rid of the poll tax and streamline our educational system.

"I'm going to call a constitutional convention and have a new constitution written."

Folsom, stopping here briefly on a vacation trip, said he was continuing on south and he did not know where he would stop next.

Accompanying him were his two daughters, Rachel, 7, and Melissa, 4, his sister; Mrs. Charles Ellis, and her two children, Charles, 8, and Cornelia, 7, and a friend, Bill Lyerly.

As the big man who will become Alabama's Governor in January lolled on the beach and gazed out to sea, he talked about his plans for Alabama.

"Ellis Arnall has invited me over to Georgia to stay with him awhile before I take office," he said, "and I'm going. I want to study his program before I start to work."

In the lobby of his hotel, a middle-aged woman stepped to his side and timidly proferred her hand: "I just want to shake your hand, Governor," she said.

Folsom, beaming, leaned far over to grasp her hand. "Where are you from?" he asked.

"I'm Mrs. White from Birmingham," she replied, "and I want you to know how glad I am that you were elected." (Democratic nomination is tantamount to election in Alabama.)

"Well," drawled Folsom smiling broadly, "you know what I did to all the girls over 16 in my campaign," and he jackknifed his giant frame and kissed the surprised woman resoundingly on the forehead.

Carmichael Camp Predicts 'Runaway' Election July 17

A "runaway" election with Carmichael winning by a landslide was predicted by Maynard Smith, Carmichael's campaign manager, as he said his camp was not making any plans for a "runover."

Commenting on a stor, that all three major candidates were quietly preparing for a runover, Smith brushed ex-Gov. Rivers out of the race and painted ex-Gov. Talmadge as a "mudder" who cannot hope to win a race on the clean, dry track Georgia will have on July 17.

"We are preparing for a runaway but not a runover," Smith said. "Look for a landslide for Carmichael but don't look in our headquarters for anyone making and kind of plans for a runover. If we had such a misguided, blind and doleful soul we would hang crepe around his or her neck and send the false prophet to the camps of these other false prophets, Talmadge and Rivers.

"Only Tuesday night, Mr. Carmichael told a whooping audience in Thomson the truth about his race—a painful truth to one candidate—and that is that E. Rivers is hopelessly out of the running.

"The truth about the other candidate is that he will be a very poor second. Maybe that's because a 'mudder' could never hope to win a race on the clean, dry track Georgia will have on July 17. In Carmichael headquarters the only use we have for the word 'runover' is as two words, such as in this sentence: Carmichael will RUN OVER the opposition with devastating decisiveness on election day," Smith concluded.

Arkansas Upholds Negro Vote Ban For State Officers

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 26—(AP)—The Arkansas Supreme Court upheld Wednesday a legislative act designed to ban Negroes from voting for State officials in Democratic Primaries.

The Act, passed last year, sets up separate Primaries for State and Federal offices. Negroes can vote in the Primaries to nominate Federal officials.

The Federal preferential Democratic Primary will be held July 16, with a runoff Aug. 6. Primaries to nominate State officials are scheduled July 30 and Aug. 13.

Lee Whittaker, of Fort Smith, candidate for Congress, challenged the Act after seeking to force the Democratic State Committee to place his name on the State Primary ballot.

Most County Quorum Courts have not appropriated funds to pay the costs of holding the Federal Primaries. Congressional candidates seeking to unseat three incumbents said this precluded a representative vote. The Court ruled that the counties must pay the costs.

Peanut Growers Elect R. B. Anderson

The Southeastern Peanut Growers' Association elected R. B. Anderson, of the Anderson Peanut Company, of Andalusia, Ala., President at the concluding session of the convention held at the Biltmore Hotel yesterday.

M. E. Williams, of the Dawson Cotton Oil Company, of Dawson, was elected Vice President and J. B. Latimer will serve as Secretary and Treasurer during the ensuing year.

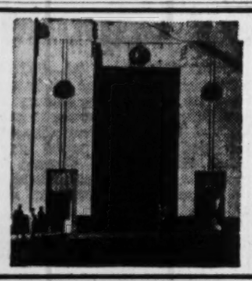

The contract between the Government and the Peanut Growers Association will expire July 30 and the main business of the meeting was given to discussion of the industry's return to private business. Improved methods of production and processing were also discussed at the meetings.

Lepers' Famous Woman Friend Seeks Advice Here on Crusade

A dark-eyed Brazilian woman who married a Georgian 20 years ago and has devoted most of her life to combating the scourge of leprosy in her native land, came to Atlanta yesterday for some new ideas.

The world-famous leprosy-fighter is Eunice Gabby Weaver, wife of Anderson Weaver, former Clayton teacher and sociologist, and the self-styled "mother-grandmother" of thousands of children of lepers.

And what she wants to know is: 1. "How you Americans who love the child so much give the best things in institutional care? 2. "How do you organize on a national scale?" 3. "How do you raise money?"

That last question was submitted by Mrs. Weaver with the hearty chuckle that punctuates nearly all her conversation but actually she was serious. She pointed out that Americans spend millions of dollars annually on the care of the underprivileged. The necessity of supporting provincial school-homes for the children of 9,000 Brazilian lepers makes the financial know-how extremely important.

Atlanta is one of a score of American cities Mrs. Weaver is visiting on a six-month tour at the invitation of the Institute of Inter-American Affairs. She spent yesterday talking to Miss Florence Van Sickler, of the Child Welfare Society, and touring such children's institutions as Hillside Cottages, Henrietta Egleston Hospital and the Scottish Rite Hospital.

Ironically, Mrs. Weaver was propelled into her work for lepers by the terror which sent her parents fleeing from the nightmarish wails of lepers who used to sweep through the country on horseback or afoot, camping in tents and haunting the populations of villages with their cries for alms.

When she had finished her education at the North American College in Sao Paulo she returned to her native country and met a former neighbor in a disease-devoured lepers' camp. From that day she has devoted herself to working for lepers and is the founder of 26 provincial homes for the children of lepers.

Her studies of the disease have taken her all over the world and she was the only woman delegate to take part in the 1938 Cairo Leprosy Conference. She represented Brazil at the Washington International Child Welfare Conference.

CAPONE

Washington, might have ramifications in a dozen major cities.

In his statement Ragen said that in 1934 the Capone syndicate wanted to take over control of the race wires in New York. Ragen's office was in New York City at the time. During the fight, Federal authorities called in Willie Bioff and George Browne who had muscled into control of the Stage Hands and Movie Operators' Union.

Serritella came to him and said, "'Is Brien McMahon friendly with the New York D. A.?'"

McMahon, now United States Senator from Connecticut, formerly was special Assistant United States Attorney in Chicago and at the time of the New York fight was a member of the law firm of Gallagher and Dean, which represented Continental Press. Ragen was head of Continental Press.

WHO PROMOTED IT

"I said, 'Naturally. He was in charge of the Criminal Division for several years under Cummings.' (Former United States Attorney General Homer S. Cummings.)

"And I said, 'Why?' and he said, "'They are calling Bioff and Browne to the D. A.'s office and pumping them and we are wondering whether Brien McMahon promoted that.'

"I said, 'Well, he would be an awful sucker if he didn't promote all he could to annoy you people, because if we go out of business he will go out on the retainer.'"

Ragen did not clarify whether McMahon had anything to do with the case. Both Bioff and Browne were sent to prison for labor racketeering.

Physicians at Michael Reese Hospital said Wednesday night that Ragen was recovering from gunshot wounds but may lose the use of his right arm.

Sources close to Capone's Miami Beach household described as "all bosh" Ragen's charge that Capone still rules the underworld. They said Capone's mental condition was such as to prevent him from taking any part in business, legal or otherwise.

'IT'S BEAUTIFUL'

Wondering Atlantan Comes Home

W. D. Askew never believed that you can't go home again.

For 40 years he roamed the Western Hemisphere, from Cuba to British Colombia, and finally settled on a cattle ranch near San Francisco.

For 40 years he wondered about his boyhood home. Had it changed? Was it still beautiful? Had it grown much? He told his wife about it, promised to bring her back and show her "the most beautiful town in the world."

W. D. Askew came home to Atlanta yesterday. He was surprised. But not disappointed.

"The streets are narrow," he said thoughtfully. "I remembered them as being wide. The town's grown, but that means progress. I like it."

"It's not like he described it to me," said his wife, "but I like it."

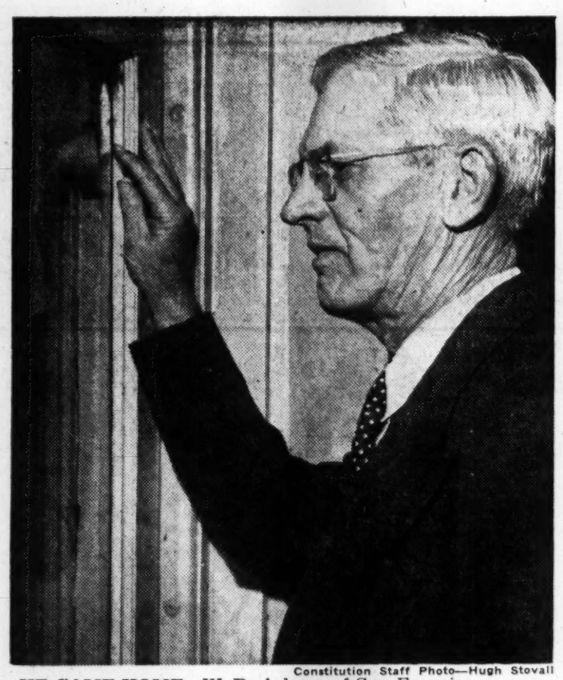

Askew was born in Waco, Texas, in 1883, and moved to Atlanta as a very young child. His father was the late Jim Askew, known as "Governor," and proprietor of the bars in the Kimball House and the Empire Building.

Askew remembers selling The Constitution on the street . . . riding out to Ponce de Leon Springs on the horse cars . . . watching the trains come in at the old depot across the street from the Kimball House.

He recalls working in Tom Pitts' cigar stand at Five Points.

His family lived at the corner of Spring and Williams Streets, and he went to grammar school on Orme Street—he can't remember the name of the school.

In fact, a lot of it's hazy. He can't remember many things. Most of his friends have left Atlanta. But he's having a big time. He'll show Mrs. Askew the sights a few more days, then return to California.

Constitution Staff Photo—Hugh Stovall

HE CAME HOME—W. D. Askew, of San Francisco, came back to visit his boyhood home, Atlanta, after a 40 years' absence. He was surprised and delighted. His wife, who had heard him talk about Atlanta for years, felt the same.

OPA

bill after Barkley's indorsement because "you're just a rubber stamp."

Guffey retorted that Wherry was simply fighting the bill because it had Administration support.

Members of Congress appeared confident the President would not risk vetoing the bill. If he did so, Congress probably would not override him, but in tispresent temper it might easily do nothing and let all controls die by default.

WHERRY LEADS FIGHT

Sen. Wherry led the fight for elimination of meat, poultry and dairy controls from the OPA Extension Bill, which would leave the agency with little more than rents to control.

Wherry was seconded by Sens. Tom Stewart, Democrat, Tennessee; Elmer Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma; Sheridan Downey, Democrat, California, and Robert A. Taft, Republican, Ohio.

However, the bloc appeared to be losing support of a number of other Senators who had opposed the bill for the very different reason that they feared it would weaken price control too much.

The latter group was said to be shying away from a fight against the bill in fear that its defeat might mean the complete abolition of the price control program.

The bill, in addition to continuing OPA in skeletonized form for another year, grants the same lease on life to the Stabilization Act of 1942 under which the Administration carried out its wage control program.

WAGE CONTROLS DOUBTED

But there was doubt that wage controls could be continued with the changes in price controls provided by the new bill, and both Administration and labor spokesmen indicated passage of this OPA legislation means the death of stabilization.

Apart from retention of controls on rents and a few essential food and other cost-of-living commodities, the bill offers little comfort to the Administration.

It envisages gradual de-control of prices on practically all commodities as soon as supply and demand balance, progressive termination of the multi-billion-dollar subsidy program, and assurance of 1941 prices for manufacturers, processors and distributors, plus whatever cost increases have occurred since then.

OPA spokesmen contended that the latter provision and changes made by the bill in the clothing and textile regulations would add $1,750,000,000 to the nation's annual living costs.

One OPA official estimated that under this bill the cost of living for a family with a $3,000 annual income would rise by $605 a year, and by perhaps $905 if it tried to buy an automobile.

Singer's Husband Dies In Norway, Under Arrest

OSLO, Norway, June 26—(AP)—Henry Johansen, husband of the Norwegian soprano, Kirsten Flagstad, died Tuesday in a state hospital presumably from pulmonary cancer, the Chief of Criminal Police announced Wednesday.

When he died Johansen still was under arrest charged with economic collaboration with the Nazis during the occupation of Norway.

Taken ill some weeks ago while in an internment camp near Oslo, Johansen was sent to the hospital and placed under the best possible medical care, said Labbee Lund, Chief of Criminal Police.

MEAT

has practically amounted to a conspiracy against their business.

A local wholesale packing executive said there is probably only enough meat in the nation's packing houses to feed America four days. He said the supply for the future is dwindling ever smaller as time goes on.

He said the black market is made up of three types of citizens. There is the crook who is in it for profit; the little grocer or meat market man who has to buy (and sell) his meat above the ceiling price, or go out of business; the third, an average character, who can't understand the OPA regulations, and commits black market crimes out of ignorance.

There are a hundred or so ways to evade the OPA rules, which range from figuring the mysterious intricacies of subsidies, to protesting at a livestock auction that you are simply buying "feeders." (There is no ceiling on feeders.) None of these ways are acceptable to big packers, because they are susceptible to investigations, and are in the business for keeps.

It would take a Gestapo of OPA enforcers to ferret out black market sinners, an army of accountants to check bookkeeping records, and a new set of morals for the American public to put any teeth in the law after the offenders are found.

What jury of 12 men, asks the wholesale packer in distress, would find a little grocer guilty of black market when he said he had to pay two cents over the ceiling or close his store? Indeed, the packer further demanded, what jury of 12 men hasn't bought or sold on the black market himself?

After a monologue of 30 or so minutes accented with such phrases as "formula for calculation," "compliance," "factors for average price," the gist of the situation summed up this way:

The American public is in for hungry days with or without OPA. If OPA is continued, the packers hope it will be revised, so the big fellow won't be penalized because his records can be checked and the little fellows' can't be checked. Prices will be up, regardless of Congress. One way will be legal . . . the other black market.

Chiles Named Head Of Blakely Legion

Lightning Kills Student Veteran On Emory Campus

A 23-year-old Georgia Evening College student was electrocuted and several other persons narrowly escaped death when a bolt of lightning struck a towering pine tree on Emory University's campus quadrangle during the height of an electrical storm yesterday.

The youth was Elton Alva Stevens, Jr., a young Mississippi war veteran who had just completed a quarter's work at the University of Georgia Evening College and was seeking transfer to Emory. He was living at the YMCA here.

Witnesses said he had taken shelter beneath a pine tree after inquiring at the University Registrar's office about transferring his credits to Emory when a bolt struck the tree.

The youth fell to the ground, and another student, Robert M. Nichols, of Ocala, Fla., rushed to his aid and began administering artificial respiration. Nichols hailed an instructor in surgery on the Emory University Medical College, Dr. Charles Ward, who gave additional treatment.

Later the Atlanta and Decatur Fire Departments rushed two pulmotors to the scene, and crews worked over the stricken youth 40 minutes before deciding their efforts were useless.

The death occurred at 10:45 a. m., when the campus was crowded with students setting out towards classes.

A. S. Turner & Sons Funeral Home is holding the body pending notification of next-of-kin. The youth's mother lives at Vicksburg, Miss.

DeKalb County Coroner S. D. Warren is investigating the case.

UNO Votes To Keep Spain on Agenda

NEW YORK, June 26—(UP)—The United Nations Security Council Wednesday night voted to keep the issue of Franco Spain on its agenda after a stormy fight in which Andrei Gromyko, Soviet Delegate, twice used his veto power to tailor a resolution closer to his liking.

It was the longest and one of the most bitter sessions in the Council's brief history. The delegates adjourned five hours and 46 minutes after they sat down to discuss a course of action against the Franco regime.

Tension in the sweltering conference room at Hunter's College, the Bronx, reached the highest pitch since Gromyko's walkout on the Iranian issue.

It was the first anniversary of the signing of the San Francisco Charter and, as far as the Council was concerned, it seemed Russia never was farther apart from the United States and Great Britain than Wednesday.

Twice the Council, by a 9-2 vote, approved a moderate resolution designed to keep the Spanish question "under observation" and both times Gromyko vetoed it. He was backed by Poland on both occasions.

In addition to considering the resolution "too feeble," Gromyko objected to a phrase which specified that the Security Council's action would be "without prejudice to the rights of the General Assembly under the Charter."

The resolution was voted on, sentence by sentence, the second time it was sulbmitted and Gromyko scored a victory and suffered a defeat.

He killed the "without prejudice" clause with his veto, but lost, 7-3, on an amendment designed to require that the Council take up the Spanish question again before Sept. 1. Mexico and Poland supported Russia.

The delegates, flushed and perspiring, attacked each other bitterly throughout the long session.

Conference. There is virtual agreement on this treaty.

The Trieste issue has shaped up as the major stumbling block in the path of the ministers. At previous conference sessions U. S. Secretary of State Byrnes has insisted that Trieste remain Italian, and Molotov has maintained that it must be ceded to Yugoslavia.

However, the frequent private consultations recently between Byrnes and Molotov have given rise to conjecture that a new compromise on Trieste was in the making.

A Yugoslav spokesman in an interview here said his Government never would sign a peace treaty with Italy which did not accept the Yugoslav "solution" of the Trieste issue.

He said the French compromise proposal for 10-year internationalization of Trieste was not acceptable to the Government of Premier Marshal Tito.

His statement emphasized the dilemma of the foreign ministers, for Italy has announced through her ambassador to Paris that she will not sign away her claim to Trieste.

Dispatches of the Soviet News Agency Tass originating in Paris have attributed the Trieste deadlock to British-American "stubborness."

'MAD' FLAGPOLE SITTER'S DOWN FROM PERCH AFTER LOVERS' SPAT

COSHOCTON, Ohio, June 26—(AP)—A lover's quarrel last night brought "Mad" Marshall Jacobs off his 176-foot flagpole, which he ascended May 30 in quest of a world sitting record.

Wednesday he had disappeared, and his fiancee, Miss Lonnie Cosmar, went to the top of the pole and said she would stay there until he returned. They are scheduled to be married on the pole Sunday.

For 26 days Jacobs had clung to his perch, despite electrical storms and hot sun. But Miss Cosmar wanted to go to Cleveland Wednesday to take part in a radio broadcast, and Jacobs forbade her to go.

She insisted, and then Jacobs came down despite her entreaties.

The steeplejack, who had planned to stay aloft until July 4, then went to his hotel room, took a bath and disappeared.

Shot Costs Alabama Town $110,000 as Will Is Changed

EUFAULA, Ala., June 26—(UP)—A shot fired into the home of a mulatto servant was said Wednesday to have cost this city $110,000.

M. G. Lee, of Cuthbert, Ga., advertised in a paper here that he had revised his will in which he had planned to bequeath $100,000 to the Eufaula schools and $10,000 to the local Woman's Club.

Lee, a former wealthy theater owner, also addressed a four-page pamphlet to the mayor, public officials and "law abiding" citizens giving his reason for changing the will.

"On June 4, 1946, a shotgun was fired into the bedroom of my servant in an effort to assassinate her," he said.

This shot cost your community $110,000."

In the pamphlet Lee explained that the "half-white" girl had worked for him for the past 18 years and that the girl's "prosperity" had caused criticism. He said that someone had preferred charges to the FBI and that after an investigation, no evidence of crime was discovered.

He added that "several policemen have openly said they would run her out of town and that since the shot no investigation has been made by your police force, showing that they were in perfect accord with the act."

Langer Wins In Dakota GOP Senate Race

WASHINGTON, June 27—(UP). William Langer, North Dakota's die-hard isolationist Senator came roaring from behind Wednesday night to win a see-saw primary battle for the State's Republican senatorial nomination.

The victory assured Langer, one of the two Senators to vote against the United Nation's charter, of a second term in the Senate. In North Dakota, the GOP nomination is tantamount to election.

His opponent, State Senator Joseph Bridston, gave Langer a stiff fight, and, at one time, held a 2,000-vote lead. The veteran Langer, however, steadily cut down this advantage and then forged into the lead. Bridston conceded defeat.

Former Sen. Gerald P. Nye conceded defeat last night in his bid to regain the Senate seat he held for nearly 20 years.

Nye was defeated in special balloting to elect a short-term senator to fill the seat left vacant by the death of Sen. John Moses, Democrat, last year.

It appeared that Sen. Milton R. Young, Republican, who was appointed to fill the seat until the election, would be the winner. Late Wednesday he had increased his lead to almost two to one over his nearest opponent, Bill Lanier, Democrat, a Fargo ex-serviceman.

A total of 963 of the State's 2,255 precincts gave: Young, 38,629; Lanier, 20,307. Nye had only 10,243 votes.

The State's two congressmen, both of whom ran at large, apparently were renominated. They were William Lemke, backed by the Republican Organization Committee, aned Charles R. Robertson, Nonpartisan League candidate.

Gov. Fred A. Aandahl won easily over Elmer Cart, Nonpartisan candidate, in the contest for the GOP gubernatorial nomination.

Federal District Judge E. Marvin Underwood has issued an order continuing hearings on naturalization petitions, set by law for June 26, until July 18.

The order—made necessary by a section of the Nationality Act of 1940 which stipulates naturalization proceedings shall not be held 60 days prior to a general election — means 35 prospective citizens will receive their vital papers here in July, instead of having to wait until January.

Graduates Find Good Jobs Waiting

June graduates of Georgia's University System are bridging the gap between campus and employment with scarcely more than a hop and a skip, the State Board of Regents has reported.

Already more than three-fourths of the graduates have been assured employment, Board officials said yesterday, pointing out that of the 1,386 persons graduated, 1,072 already have jobs or assurances of employment.

Other figures released by the Board showed:

The oldest student to graduate was 52 years old, having attended the University System Center at Atlanta and the Albany State College at Albany. A 47-year-old student graduated from the University of Georgia.

Youngest graduate from a senior institution was an 18-year-old student at the University System Center. Both the University of Georgia and Georgia Tech had 19-year-old graduates.

The graduates included 175 married students, 208 who worked their entire way through school and 555 who worked part of their way.

Graduates planning to take advanced work in colleges total 277.

Non-veteran women formed the largest group of graduates, totaling 783. There were 483 non-veteran men. Only one veteran woman student was graduated but 119 veteran men students wound up their courses.

The University System includes seven senior colleges, six junior colleges and three Negro institutions.

Jimmie for Farm Electricity; 'Smokescreen' Ires Gene

Gubernatorial Candidate Jimmie Carmichael promised to work for electricity in every Georgia farm house, ex-Gox. Rivers assailed Talmadge and Carmichael as "obstructionists," and ex-Gov. Talmadge hit back at Carmichael for calling the racial issue a "smokescreen" in campaign addresses yesterday.

Speaking at Swainsboro last night, Carmichael said he would throw the full force of his administration behind a program to put electricity in every farm house in Georgia during the next four years.

This pledge followed Carmichael's promise, in an earlier speech at Waynesboro, to help develop outdoor life in Georgia in favor of the "average man with a gun and a dog, and the fellow with a fishing pole and line."

"I have stressed the fact that Georgia's future lies in its industrial and agricultural development," Carmichael said. "Nothing has contributed more towards making farm life more comfortable and profitable than the improvement of living conditions through our rural electrification program. As Governor, I shall work closely with our Representatives in Congress to improve and extend this service, which has been slowed down by the war."

Carmichael said Georgia is on the eve of a great recreational era which will send thousands of hunters and fishermen into fields and streams. To assure them all "good hunting," the State Wildlife Department must do an airtight job of conservation, he pointed out. He said that quail hunting will be kept within the reach of the average man with a gun and a dog. More quail and fish hatcheries and more rangers to protect wild life are needed. Carmichael said Georgia could become a sportsman's paradise, luring tourists to spend millions here, and providing recreation for its own people and the veterans.

Rivers, in a speech at Milledgeville, charged that Talmadge and Carmichael fought his revenue measures during his past administrations. He said Carmichael was not satisfied with fighting the revenue measures from the floor of the House, but after retiring from the Legislature he became a paid professional lobbyist and continued to fight the Rivers program. Meanwhile, Talmadge was fighting from his office in the William-Oliver Building.

"They knew my legislation was good," Rivers said. "They knew the benefits would have derived from the progressive measures I advocated, and they dared not fight those constructive measures openly, but after those measures became laws, Carmichael came into the open and fought the revenue measures, while Goose Grease Gene fought them from his law office."

Rivers reminded his listeners that Talmadge had disgraced Georgia's school system, and charged that Carmichael is being ruled by Jim Cox of Ohio. He repeated his assertion that he had "written" Carmichael out of the race. Rivers made five speeches yesterday, talking in Vidalia, Lyons, Swainsboro, Soperton, and Milledgeville.

Talmadge, speaking in Camilla, told his listeners: "they say it (the racial issue) is a 'smoke screeen,' but remember where there is smoke there's fire.

"My opponents would like to blind you by the smoke they have thrown around the true issues in this campaign," Talmadge continued. "But, look beneath the smoke and you will see a raging holocaust burning away at the very foundation of our Southern traditions and segration laws. With their smoke of misrepresentation and mis-statement they've tried to blind you to the fact that the white primary can be legally preserved and the county unit system maintained."

Earlier in the day, Talmadge told a Donalsonville audience it could expect a barrage of misinformation and mis-statement from the Atlanta press in a desperate effort to stay the flood of white votes that would sweep him into office on his program of restoration of the white primary and maintenance of the county unit system. He urged the crowd to beware of false polls and huge slush funds.

BALLOT MERGER POLL COUNT DUE

Results of a poll to merge Carmichael and Rivers strength in the Governor's race will be announced in a WSB broadcast at 9 p. m. on July 4.

Rutherford Ellis, member of the Board of Regents, and Lon Sullivan, Director of the Georgia Citizens' Council—two friends of different political leanings, are making the poll to determine which candidate should receive the anti-Talmadge vote. Sullivan is a Rivers' friend, while Ellis favors Carmichael.

School superintendents, members of the Legislature, one county commissioner, county agents, and others have been questioned in this confidential poll.

Rezoning Petitions Denied by Planners

Petition of Mrs. Grace Yoshinuma to rezone property fronting 177 feet on Peachtree St. near the intersection of Fifteenth St. to use as a restaurant was denied yesterday by the City Planning Commission following the appearance of a large delegation of citizens opposing the proposal.

The Commission also had before it a large number of other petitions as the result of the efforts of property owners to convert their holdings into business use. Many of them were adversed following the protest of residents.

NEW CROP OF PROSPECTIVE LAWYERS OVERWHELMINGLY BACKS JIMMIE

Georgia's newest crop of prospective lawyers has voted overwhelmingly for Gubernatorial Candidate James V. Carmichael in an unrehearsed straw ballot conducted between sessions of the State Bar Examination.

The poll, conducted yesterday among applicants from every section of the State, gave 107 votes to Carmichael, 42 for former Gov. Eugene Talmadge, 10 for former Gov. E. D. Rivers and one each for Hoke O'Kelley, Hugh Howell and Gov. Arnall.

Eight of the 170 applicants for the Bar failed to vote.

Alderman Lee Evans, Hugh Howell, Jr., and Sidney Haskins, members of the Georgia Bar and monitors for the examination, conducted the voting. Evans emphasized that the balloting was not connected officially with the State Board of Bar Examiners, pointing out theat the survey was held in the Capitol corridors as the applicants recessed for lunch.

Results of the Bar Examination will not be known for approximately 15 days, it was learned. Non-veteran applicants must make a passing grade of 70, while veterans need score only 65.

Carmichael To Speak In Eastman Tomorrow

EASTMAN, June 26 — According to an announcement by the Dodge County Carmichael-for-Governor Club, arrangements have been completed for James V. Carmichael to speak to the people of Eastman and Dodge County Friday night, June 28, at the City Park.

The park will be illuminated with large floodlights and made as comfortable as possible for the listeners. In case of inclement weather the program will be held at the Dodge County Courthouse.

Among those to appear on the program with the candidate will be D. D. Smith, Eastman lawyer, who will act as master of ceremonies; Herman Burch, President of Dodge County Farm Bureau; Mrs. Dave Field, Marietta, a former Eastman girl; Mrs. E. M. Herrington, Plainfield, and Edwin T. Methvin, Editor of the Times-Journal, Eastman.

The club extends an invitation to the general public to hear their candidate speak and especially do they urge ladies, teen-agers and veterans to attend.

Arnall Apologizes For His Aid to Rivers

Gov. Arnall said yesterday he wanted to "apologize to the people of Georgia for ever having supported" his predecessor, E. D. Rivers, for public office.

Arnall, in a prepared statement issued late yesterday, said:

"I supported Rivers when he ran for Governor. I worked for him, contributed to his campaign and did all that I could to help him. The only public office which he holds today is the office he holds at my hands as National Committeeman.

"When Ed Rivers, Roy Harris (House Speaker) and Eugene Talmadge (former Governor and now a gubernatorial candidate) were afraid to trust the people on the question of who should be Governor, and held their secret meetings at the Henry Grady Hotel to plot against the rights of the people, and when Rivers joined forces with Harris and Talmadge, as he is doing in this campaign, he forfeited my claim to friendship.

"I desire to apologize to the people of Georgia for ever having supported him for public office. He is unworthy of public office and I am sure the people will see to it that he will never be elected again.

"The fact that he is running a poor third in the Governor's race is why he is so bitter against me. If he had a chance to be elected Governor he would not be the embittered candidate he is today."

Arnall's statement apparently was made in reply to Rivers' radio address in which he charged Arnall with having "double-crossed" him by throwing his support to James V. Carmichael. At that time Rivers declared that as late as last December Arnall had told friends he would support Rivers.

The former Governor asserted that Arnall was influenced in his decision by the Publisher of the Atlanta Journal, James Cox, former Governor of Ohio.

SHERIFF BURNS

Fiery Cross Called Prank Of Town Boys

HELENA, Ark., June 26—(AP)—The burning of a cross on Crowley's Ridge Monday night, which gave rise to reports of a reorganization of the Ku Klux Klan in this area, was marked off by the sheriff's office Wednesday as the work of youthful pranksters.

Deputy Sheriff Edgar Hickey indicated his investigation of the incident would be completed with questioning of some boys of high school age who were not identified.

He said a cross, crudely made of an old board and part of a tree limb put together with baling wire, had been found on the ridge.

The cross burning was observed by spectators at a soft ball game at City Recreation Park Monday night. Several local residents reported to authorities they had seen a fiery cross on top of the ridge on the corresponding night of last week.

Boys High Alumni Re-open Fight Against Co-education

The Atlanta Boys High Alumni Association has again opened the question of co-education and called on the Board of Education to grant a hearing to the group at the annual meeting at the Atlantan Hotel yesterday when alumni officers for the ensuing year were elected.

Charging that the Board of Education and Miss Ira Jarrell, Superintendent of Atlanta Schools, are involved in a political intrigue to force co-education on the city schools, the Alumni Association passed a series of resolutions calling for a hearing on the question of co-education and the continuation of H. O. Smith as Principal although he has reached retirement age.

The resolution follows: "Whereas the Atlanta Board of Education has been adamant in its position of refusing a public hearing on the question of preserving Boys High, Girls High and Tech High,

"And whereas we believe that it is in the public interest to at least give the opposition to their plans of destruction a hearing as part of our American democratic process, a process we fought World War II to maintain,

"Therefore, be it resolved that we again request the said Board of Education to give a public hearing on this question on the basis of the fact that we know of many returning veterans who will vote and who have had no voice in any of these plans,

"Be it resolved that if the Board of Education refuses our official request for a public hearing on the matter, that we, the Boys High Alumni Association, give the fact of their refusal the widest possible publicity and begin making plans now to finance opposition for each seat on the Board of Education at its election four years hence.

"And be it further resolved that we oppose the bond issue in the general election if the Board does not relent.

"And whereas the Boys High PTA has gone on record unanimously in favor of requesting the Board of Education as a wartime emergency in the face of teacher shortage to retain H. O. Smith as Principal of Boys High at the discretion of the Superintendent.

"Therefore be it resolved that the Boys High Alumni Association heartily indorse this action by the Boys High PTA and go on record unanimously in favor of this resolution.

"And that Miss Jarrell be requested to notify officers of this Association of her decision with reference to the principalship of Boys High School by July 15, 1946."

The Alumni Association elected Ernest J. Brewer, secretary to Mayor Hartsfield, Pres.; Bill Brady, 1st V. Pres.; Dan Greer, 2d V. Pres.; Jim Light, Sec., and Charlie Preston, 3d V. Pres. Robert Shivers is retiring President.

THE GIRL NEXT DOOR, AGE 3, AIDS DICKIE AS HE LEARNS USE OF ARTIFICIAL LEGS

LYNN, Mass., June 26—(AP)—Three-year-old Dickie Landry and the three-year-old girl next door are walking out together.

Dickie lost both legs in a train accident last March. His mother, Mrs. Joseph Landry, said the boy was having a hard time learning to use the artificial legs bought from a $25,000 fund donated by the people of Lynn.

"But the other day," Mrs. Landry said, "little Ada Wallace showed him how to get downstairs by sitting down and pushing himself from step to step.

"Now, in the yard, Dickie puts his hands on Ada's shoulders and she walks backward leading him."

Astor To Run for MP But Not as a 'Dry'

LONDON, June 26—(AP)—Lady Astor's son, John Jacob, wants to follow his mother into the House of Commons, but not on her prohibition platform.

The Virginia-born parlimentarian, who retired from politics last Summer, waged a long and frequently tempestuous battle for temperance.

"It is a man's own responsibility to decide whether he will drink or not," Astor said at a press conference on his candidacy as a Conservative at a Plymouth by-election. "It has nothing to do with me and I do not intend to bring drink or morals into politics."

Robert B. Troutman On the Primary

Georgia has no finer citizen than Robert B. Troutman.

Of an old Georgia family, one with a long history of genuine service to the State, President of the Georgia Bar Association, a distinguished alumnus of the University of Georgia, it is no exaggeration to say no man in the State is more respected for his character and love of State than he.

It is unthinkable that any one of the three candidates for Governor should make a contrary statement.

He has no personal interest in the gubernatorial campaign. Yet he felt impelled, because of his love of his native State, to speak out in this campaign and denounce the vicious and shameful effort to use the Negro to deceive the people of this State, to divide them, and to bring about the elimination of election and primary laws, thus turning the State over to the professional politicians to do with it as they will.

He told of how the people left the convention system for the primary. He explained how we passed necessary laws to make the primary honest and to protect the ballot.

He discussed the Supreme Court decision which was "fully and ably argued" by outstanding Georgia attorneys in a case heard by Georgia judges. There was not, as he said, "a furriner or a Communist" among all those who worked on that case. It was not a phony. It was not a plot. The long brief opposing the Primus King contention contains more than 100 pages of the best legal argument that could be made.

He called names. He said that the Talmadge proposal to abolish all laws was a plot by Roy Harris and Eugene Talmadge to control all future primaries and to set up a political dictatorship.

He took Mr. Talmadge's inaugural speech of 1941 and read from it as follows:

"'The main thing that I want to talk to you about is to protect your ballots.

"'Protect our ballots? How?

"'The Democrat Primary in Georgia is tantamount to election. We have safe and sound laws protecting the general election, but practically no legislation protecting our primaries.

"'Why, in some of our highest circles it is considered a sporting event to steal a county or militia district, and sometimes they will become high in political circles by stealing a county.

"'Pass legislation guaranteeing a recount in an election. Pass other legislation protecting the ballot in order to have a true democracy in Georgia.'"

The thoughtful people of Georgia, every man and woman who loves this State and who has hopes for the future of its business and the development of its schools and farms, cannot fail to think about what Robert B. Troutman has said.

We agree with him that the torrent of abuse and calumny is shameful and uncalled for, that it is criminal for any man ruthlessly to make of Georgia a State of fear and tension, to destroy the protection of law in primary elections, and to drive business and investment from its borders.

And we are convinced that any other citizen who takes time—as has Robert B. Troutman—to investigate the facts in the case, will agree that the race issue is a spurious one.

Tobacco Market Date in Association's Hands

The Tobacco Association of the United States meets today in Raleigh, N. C.

The Association, which controls the auction system of the nation, will set opening dates for the various tobacco markets, including Georgia.

But, despite the fact that they have a very real interest in the matter, Georgia tobacco farmers will have no voice in the decision.

And, unless it breaks a precedent of many years' standing, the Association will show little regard for the financial welfare of Georgia farmers in setting a premature and inadequate selling season for this State.

The idea is to squeeze the Georgia season in before the opening of the Carolina market. And the result is that seldom, if ever, has the Georgia market been kept open long enough for farmers adequately to market their crop.

Georgia suffers immeasurably because of this. Farmers rush their tobacco to market before it is ready. It is dumped on the market in a mad scramble during opening days for fear the bottom will drop out as buyers prepare to move on northward.

Having endeavored in vain to get the Association to provide a measure of relief by prolonging the season, Georgia's only recourse seems to lie in more locally-owned warehouses so that the State need not depend on out-of-State operators whose main interest lies elsewhere.

But that is a long-term process.

This year again, Georgia farmers can merely hold their breath, awaiting the Association's omnipotent decision, praying that it may benignly allot them a few more days in which to market their leaf crop.

THE PULSE OF THE PUBLIC

The Constitution welcomes letters from its readers. They must be signed, should not exceed 200 words.

Cow Pens Full

Editor Constitution: I can't remain silent when you and other editors try to take a man like Eugene Talmadge, the best Governor Georgia ever had, and besmirch his good name and to try to deceive and hoodwink the good people of Georgia. You Atlanta papers have done everything under the sun twice in two previous campaigns to defeat Talmadge but he and his good friends have whipped you twice and I am sure that we can do it again.

Now in reference to your laws you referred to in a recent editorial. What is law? Law, if my vocabulary serves me right isn't anything more than common sense reduced to writing. You and your big papers and their Governors have sold the people of Georgia down the river. I think it is time to change and repeal those laws pertaining to primaries and give us back our white Democratic Primary. I am sure if every Governor of Georgia before or since Talmadge had left as much money in the pockets of the people of Georgia as Talmadge and done as much for the advancement of Georgia schools as he has done we would have had one of the best States in the world.

You big papers have resorted to some of the most despicable and unfair trickery to fool the people but I am sure you will lose out on July 17. Why some call Talmadge the crazy man from Sugar Creek. I wish to God we had cow pens full of men like Talmadge and John S. Gibson in Washington and Atlanta who have backbone and guts to fight our battles and destroy this Communist and Negro-loving element.

Carmichael Sincere

Editor Constitution: I don't know what Mr. Rivers promised the labor leaders to begin with, but he can't deliver it. He is admittedly out of the race, and the working men must decide that their opinions are their own and that their choice must be a positive one.

I was never for Rivers. He has no record that would inspire anyone to vote for him except that he was first to take advantage of Federal funds available for State use.

I want a State Government that will do for my children things that must be done for them. I am too old to ask anything from a Government except that it is one I can brag about, but my children deserve a good man to help them, and to be fair with them.

The most sincere man in the State: James V. Carmichael. I wish I could tell everybody.

Ironical?

Editor Constitution: As I was sitting at the breakfast table reading Ralph McGill's usual one-sided column, I noticed that Mr. McGill ridiculed a statement made by the next Governor of our State, Gene Talmadge, in which Mr. Talmadge reiterated his belief that if the present administration remains in power our sons and daughters, sisters and brothers will be going to school with Negroes.

Mr. McGill stated. "It is ridiculous for Mr. Talmadge to frighten the people of Georgia with such smears." We all must agree that Mr. McGill is a talented and conscientious writer and being such he succeeded in placing a shadow of a doubt in my mind as to the possibility of Negro and white students attending the same schools.

It was at this very instant that the news announcer blared forth with the startling announcement that the higher courts had just ruled that Negroes and white students were to attend the same schools in the Southern State of Texas.

Here at our very back door in the great Southern State of Texas had happened the same situation Mr. Talmadge had warned us of and the same situation which Mr. McGill had scoffed at as being ridiculous. Ironically enough this slam on Southern heritage was made public on the identical day Mr. McGill raved and ranted that such a thing could not happen in the South.

Editor Constitution: As a citizen of Georgia for upward of 20 years I am and always have been concerned for the best welfare of each and every citizen of the State. As a former staff member of one of the affiliated unions of the CIO, I am deeply concerned over the confusion of mind on the part of some of its present officials and members recently expressed in your columns regarding its support of candidates for Governor in the forthcoming election. Fortunately there is no expressed direct leaning toward Mr. Talmadge whose anti-labor record is well known. But an indicated favoritism for Mr. Rivers by some is difficult to comprehend. It is based either on complete confusion of mind or utter ignorance. Not only did Mr. Rivers do nothing to promote the human and legal rights of organized labor during his two terms as Governor, but he failed totally to protect these rights.

In 1938 I was brutally assaulted by a bunch of hoodlums on the porch of a hotel in a Georgia town while talking to the president of a local mill. After vainly seeking justice through town and county officials, I paid a personal visit to then Gov. Rivers. He did nothing. I then appealed to the U. S. Department of Justice in Washington. As a result, the president, vice president and general manager, two foremen and 11 employes of the mill were indicted by a grand jury in Savannah on five counts. The trial was held in Waycross. I was told by officials of the Department of Justice that it was one of the most farcical abortions of justice ever perpetrated in its long record of cases.

On the basis of their equally indifferent or violent attitude toward the welfare of the workers of Georgia, there is no ground for expecting any fair treatment of the rights of organized labor from either Mr. Rivers or Mr. Talmadge.

There is too much at stake in the coming election for a single vote to be wasted that could help to drain off forever by an overwhelming defeat the foulest stream of political clownishness, charlatanism and corruption that ever poured its poison into the mind and heart of our great State.

Do You 'Understand' Politics?

Are you one of those who say, "I wish I understood politics?"

Are you a student of political science?

Then don't miss making a few notes on the current campaign. It offers perfect examples of the "tactics of distraction."

The Talmadge campaign, for example, talks a great deal about Henry Wallace, former Vice President of the United States.

Mr. Wallace is not generally popular.

He is especially unpopular with some farmers.

Therefore, almost every day the name of Henry Wallace, who is not even remotely connected with the Georgia campaign; who probably doesn't even know who is running, is dragged into the speeches.

Mr. Wallace is painted as plotting against Georgia when, and if, he becomes President of the United States.

Now, of course, the facts are Mr. Wallace can't be elected President of the United States. He knows it. Everyone else knows it. Now and then some theorist suggests him for a third party. This he has refused. But, even so, he has not the remotest chance of becoming President.

Therefore, to drag him in as an issue, is the height of foolishness. There is no more chance of him becoming President and plotting against Georgia than there is for Stone Mountain to get up and walk down to Glynn County. Yet those using him as an issue do so in the hope of distracting from the facts.

They hope there are enough people gullible enough to believe it to make votes. In this connection, it is interesting to note that James V. Carmichael is the only candidate to call for preferential primaries.

Distraction Exactly the same thing is true of the white supremacy issue dragged so much into the race. There is no candidate in any race who is on the other side.

In the Governor's race both Candidates E. D. Rivers and James V. Carmichael have taken an unequivocable stand on it. Not a single soul has failed to oppose mixing of races in schools or anywhere else. Every newspaper and radio speaker has opposed it. There is not a single influence in the race that wishes to mix the races in schools or elsewhere.

Yet the tactics of distraction are to accuse and shout about them as if there were some effort to do so in Georgia.

Again, they hope there are enough gullible people to fall for this distraction and forget the records of the past.

There is a great deal of talk about Ellis Arnall. He is not one of the candidates. People either believe he has made a good record as Governor or they do not. All he can do in the campaign is cast one vote. Yet the tactics of distraction are to shout about Ellis Arnall who is not an issue.

This is a part of the science of "politics."

The thoughtful voter seeks to see through smoke screens, or distractions of the kind illustrated, and realize those using them have something to hide.

History People must believe in laws to protect the ballot. All who believe in the primary system have been disturbed rather greatly by Mr. Talmadge's proposals to abolish all laws and turn the primaries of the future over to the appointed delegates of succeeding Governors.

At Mr. Talmadge's last inaugural address, Jan. 14, 1941, he said:

"The MAIN thing I want to talk to you about is to protect your ballots!

"Protect our ballots? How?

"The Democratic primary in Georgia is tantamount to election. We have safe and sound laws protecting the general election, but practically no legislation protecting our primaries.

"Why, in some of our highest circles it is considered a sporting event to steal a county or militia district, and sometimes they will become high in political circles by stealing a county.

"Pass legislation guaranteeing a recount in an election. Pass other legislation protecting the ballot in order to have a true democracy in Georgia."

That's what he said:

With this, I am sure, all people are in entire accord.

We supported that and the legislation, drawn by Mr. Talmadge, was passed. Mr. Talmadge felt he had been counted out in a previous primary and he had not been able to have any recourse. The convention was steam-rolling things. He had no legal protection.

Now, he says to repeal all laws, even his own, and leave it to the professional politicians merely because he believes the people of Georgia are not able to handle the problem of the relatively few Negroes qualified to vote. This will really destroy the primary if it is deprived of controlling laws . . . some of them those demanded and passed by Mr. Talmadge.

His interpretation of history is unusual.

Watson In support of his argument he says that Tom Watson, among others, was elected before the primary laws and without any fraud.

Well, that's not the way I heard it.

I suppose every Tom Watson man yet alive knows that because there were no primary laws Tom Watson was twice robbed of election to Congress by the corrupt practices and fraud at Augusta, Ga. Those two steals are among the most famous in our own political history.

There were no laws and no qualifications, and therefore the politicians were not required to qualify either Negro or white voters. The result was the machine twice counted more votes than there were people registered and both times stole the election from Tom Watson, embittering him forever after.

The history of those elections, including others involving races by John B. Gordon and others, was so replete with fraud that there was a demand for law and that demand has grown through the years.

As Mr. Talmadge so truly says:

"What protection have we against fraud and corruption unless we have laws to protect the ballot? We cannot have democracy without laws covering primaries."

Everyone Exaggerates

Some days ago I had my eyes tested for new glasses. Patiently and carefully, by process of trial and error, the doctor selected lenses that gave me almost perfect vision, far and near.

But when the glasses were mailed to me, I tried them and couldn't see anything distinctly. I couldn't recognize a word or a letter in a newspaper, except the large display lines. Objects across the room were blurred and grotesquely warped and distorted. The strain of trying to see through the glasses was unendurable after a few seconds.

Obviously there had been an error. The glasses seemed just the opposite of what they should have been.

I wrote the doctor a brief note, reporting the trouble much as I have described it here, and two days later I received a polite note of sympathy because I was "having trouble getting used to the new lenses."

There was only one credible explanation. My note had failed to register. Each statement had been taken with several grains of salt. Apparently I was having a little trouble adjusting myself to the new glasses, as most people do, but had exaggerated the difficulty beyond all reason.

That was a natural conclusion.

Doctors must judge by the evidence, and part of the evidence is the fact that people exaggerate. A rare and calm and well-poised patient may say: "Doctor, I have a severe pain under my left shoulder blade." But the ordinary patient is more likely to say: "Doc, I've got an awful pain under my left shoulder blade and it's killing me. I can't stand it."

All of us exaggerate, not with intent to deceive, but in an effort to arouse the hearer's interest and impress him and make him comprehend the matter as we do. Since everybody does it, there is no deception; for everybody automatically makes the proper discount.

The fault in this system is that anybody who reports facts accurately is likely to fool people. We once had a statesman who tricked foreign diplomats that way. He told the truth and they thought he was lying.

Not by Bread Alone, But Some Is Necessary

In Hamilton, Ontario, a minister has suggested that clergymen may have to go on strike unless they get more pay to meet rising living costs.

This is an age of organization. But who thought to see the day preachers would be picketing churches?

It'll sure seem sort of funny, the shepherd negotiating with his flock for larger honorariums and fewer buttons in the collection plate.

Not, of course, that it's not needed. There are no special ministerial rates on today's inflated market.

A lot of people practice tithing . . . by giving a tenth as much as they should.

And while salvation is free, the least the congregation can do is take care of the delivery charges.

Ecclesiastcal striking is undeniably a drastic resort. But, in all fairness, how can a preacher keep his mind on heaven when everything he has to buy is high as you-know-where?

British System Better Than Ours?

WASHINGTON—The relations between the executive and legislative branches have reached a condition of almost total breakdown in the last six months. And at no time in history have vaster peacetime problems confronted the United States, or more urgently demanded positive solutions. And at no time in history has it been less easy to place a positive solution of any problem on the statute books. This is the third of the great difficulties which have bedeviled the unlucky President Truman.

The breakdown has three main causes. First, the founding fathers, by separating the legislative and executive branches, in effect condemned the Congress to irresponsibility. Since members of Congress are not responsible for administering national policy, they do not suffer from the consequences of their own action or inaction. Second, the founding fathers also failed to provide any means by which a political divergence between the legislative and executive branches could be corrected. At present, Congress is highly conservative, while the executive branch clings to a different policy. Impotence is the inevitable result. Third, Franklin Roosevelt gave the country 13 years of strong executive leadership, which always generates congressional irritation and therefore congressional obstinacy.

But while it is easy to delineate the causes of the difficulty and to estimate its seriousness, providing a corrective is not so simple. Behind the scenes, in the offices of the executive departments and the lobbies of Congress, no question has been more discussed by serious men in the last six months.

Many leaders of the executive branch, including men in the highest positions, privately incline toward the remedy proposed by Thomas Finletter, in his remarkable study of the American Government. Finletter would give the President a whiphand over an obstinate and unco-operative Congress, by giving him the right to declare a legislative dissolution. The President would thus send the issue between himself and Congress to the people for settlement at the polls. No member of Congress likes elections, and this expedient would confine congressional dissents from the executive to basic differences of principle.

Leanings in this direction are not entirely absent in Congress. Perhaps the most astonishing single experience of your correspondents, in the last six months, was a conversation with one of the two or three most influential members of the Republican-conservative Democratic coalition. This man admitted pleasure at the coalition's success in repeatedly beating the Administration. But he also admitted that the coalition could not offer a constructive program as its own. This, he added, was extremely dangerous. "You know," he concluded reflectively, "this is the first time I've wondered whether the British system might not be better than ours."

Not Feasible But such remedies will not be feasible without an acute constitutional crisis (such as may well be caused, indeed, by an election of a Republican House this Fall). A suggestion as to what can be done now is to be found in the excellent executive-legislative relationship in one isolated field—that of foreign policy. In part, the relationship is good here, although it is bad everywhere else because Sens. Connally and Vandenberg have actually participated in making foreign policy. But it is more important still that they have been given day-to-day information about the facts on which policy must be based. Members of the House and Senate have no way of learning the facts about national problems. Giving them the facts is vital. For when men are considering issues of deep national import, their disagreements are rarely irreconcilable if they all know all the facts.

An extension of the present system has been urged upon Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, in memoranda from his subordinates. If he accepts this advice, he will establish as a permanent organ of the State Department a body similar to the committee headed by Undersecretary of State Dean G. Acheson, which had such success in winning congressional assent to the trade agreements and Bretton Woods bills. The body would be headed by a very high official to give it authority. But it would not be a mere lobby. It would be charged, rather, with keeping key members of both Houses of Congress in constant touch with the impelling facts on which American foreign policy is founded. Thus good relations would be further promoted, and it would become easier for this country to act decisively in the foreign field.

Furthermore, several of the President's wisest advisors, including the astute and disinterested Secretary of the Senate, Leslie Biffle, have urged that Truman employ the same technique to secure greater unanimity on national policy as a whole. It would be more difficult when the issues were domestic. It would probably be impossible to do a full-scale job until creation of an executive secretariat to co-ordinate all executive activity had secured something like unanimity of policy within the executive branch. But it would be another long step in the right direction.

I Heard Politics But Talked None

During vacation I made it a point not to talk about any of the subjects which, under normal workaday routine, just naturally come up most of the time. In fact, I tried not to think about them, even.

However, in Georgia, during an election year, you can't get entirely away from politics. Even though you may abstain from talk and discussion yourself, you can't always help overhearing others debating the qualities of this or that candidate.

Country Store Thus, one forenoon I was parked, sitting in the car, in front of a country store. My womenfolks were inside marketing.

The store, a country store, was nevertheless quite modern in its interior equipment.

In one respect, though, the custom of the country store of old still continues. You recognize, with perhaps a touch of nostalgia, the well-worn cane-bottomed chairs ranged in front of the store.

On this forenoon of which I write, there were three middle-aged men, seated side by side, chairs tilted comfortably back, enjoying the sunshine and discoursing, with much laughter, about this and that.

Crop Conditions I sat, without a word, in the car and listened to the talk.

They spoke, first, of the progress of crops on their own farm lands. One, I remember, was bemoaning the failure of his corn to "ear out." Said it was eight-foot high but mighty few ears coming.

I gathered that one of the others had told the corn grower, at planting time, he was using the wrong seed corn and there was some indulgence in that satisfactory "I told you so," talk.

But they were good natured, all three, and evidently not given to worry. Everything seemed excuse for some wise crack.

Then the three began talking, and joking with even greater hilarity, about the current Governor's race.

Not for Gene It was quickly apparent that not one of the three was going to vote for Talmadge. They didn't go into much detail, but no listener could doubt they were, definitely, anti-Talmadge men, today. They had heard him speak, quite recently, and they saw the obvious fallacies of his campaign claims and promises.

I couldn't gather, though, whether they would vote for Carmichael or for Rivers. The only thing I was sure of was they would vote, not for any candidate, but against Talmadge.

Then one of the three jumped up and, with a great laugh, pointed to another and said:

"Don't tell me. You just can't vote against Gene. You wouldn't dare."

"Why not?" was the retort. "I'll vote for who I please."

"Pshaw," laughed the first. "I remember when you led the Talmadge victory parade, wearing the biggest and reddest pair of galluses in the county. That committed you to Gene, from then on. Folks would laugh you out of the State if you voted against Gene after that."

"Well," the other laughed, "a fellow can change his mind I reckon. I ain't votin' for Gene this time. No sir!"

And the little group broke up, still laughing, and each went his way. I thought to myself:

"Well, not all the wool hat boys are for Gene."

For each of the three was a typical, good natured, faded-overall-wearing Georgia farmer. The kind you may fool once, even twice, but not for always.

GEORGIA EDITORS SAY:

THERE IS NO RACE ISSUE IN GUBERNATORIAL CAMPAIGN

(Thomaston Times)

Despite the efforts of Ole Gene to stir it up, there is no race issue in Georgia and the subject has no place in the gubernatorial campaign. The "race issue" has always been his one and only platform but the people of the State are too intelligent to be fooled by it any more. If there should be race riots (we do not believe there will be) between now and the primary of July 17, you can charge them up to the propaganda of Ole Gene.

The relations between the races in Georgia, that is colored and white, were never better than they are now and to upset them for political purposes would be nothing short of criminal. The Negro race in Georgia is only a minor part of the population, and to say that it represents a threat to white supremacy reflects a lack of intelligence on the part of anyone who makes such a statement.

The Negroes do not want social equality. They do want better educational and economic opportunity and should have it. There is nothing wrong in giving it to them. Both races would benefit by such an arrangement.

Ole Gene has boasted that he can "holler nigger" and carry any election in Georgia, but Ellis Arnall disproved that statement four years ago and Jimmie Carmichael will again give the lie to it.

How It Feels To Be In an Auto Collision

To be smashed head-on in the left front fender, like being hanged by mistake, is mildly disconcerting to a thinking man. As one who no later than yesterday was so smashed, I am now an authority on how it feels. It is not too bad. In fact, in the few brief seconds before the collision, when it is perfectly clear that there is going to be one whale of a bump, the thought of injury does not enter the head, particularly.

In fact, not being in the driver's seat and therefore having no control over the situation whatsoever except to push firmly down on the floor boards as if putting on brakes, I found that the thoughts which raced through my mind were, (a) just how much noise is this going to make? and (b) I wonder if that guy has any insurance.

I am happy to report that it made a most satisfying tearing, crashing, rending, crunching noise, accompanied by the shattering of glass, and that the driver of the other machine did have insurance. He didn't, but the used car lot which owned the automobile he was trying out, and which seemed to be equipped with all the necessary components except brakes, had plenty, and took the whole thing very calmly. Noting that nobody was bleeding, the manager merely told us all, airily, that their insurance covered all damage and that they would have the car fixed. Meanwhile, they said, they would be happy to lend us a car while ours was being fixed. Which they did, and it didn't have any brakes either.

No Brakes I think what gave this accident a certain element of calm on my part was the fact that it was quite some time in happening. The young man in the other car was coming down Spring Street in heavy traffic when he decided it would be best to put on brakes to keep from bumping into a man who was coming out into Spring in front of him. He applied the brakes confidently, the pedal went to the floorboard, and there he was. No brakes. No nothing. The only thing he could do was cut left as far as possible trying to get around the obstruction, but unfortunately that traffic lane was full of automobiles too. So he came crunching his way down Spring, mashing fenders port and starboard, and by the time he reached us he was still going at fair speed and could turn neither to the right or the left. Neither could we, so we just stopped, waiting his head-on arrival.

I remember thinking, along with the quick flashing thoughts about the noise and the insurance, that a man in a car running wild in heavy traffic is about as busy a man as you ever expect to see. He is whipping the wheel this way and that, he is tramping futilely on the brakes, he is trying to slam it into low or high or second or reverse—anything to stop it—and the look on his face is so lugubrious as to be uproariously laughable—afterward, of course, if nobody gets hurt.

Pale I had time, I remember, in the moment before the crash, to recall a trip I made with Ollie Reeves not long ago when we came over a rise on the Athens road in a mizzling rain to see a man coming down the road in a sedan that was whirling round and round in the highway. We got a good look at the man's white and stricken face as he whirled off the road in front of us, going backward down a slight fill, madly twirling the wheel even after he had come to a safe stop.

Ollie never turned a hair, though the man had narrowly missed us. "Well," said the poet, after we had gone some distance, "all that guy needed to have a merry-go-round was a calliope."

The young man in the sports coat who hit us was equally as distraught as the man who needed the calliope. He was wearing dark glasses, which made him look even paler than he was. As the noise of the crash died away and the two automobiles, their noses all churned up together began to bleed profusely from broken oil lines and radiators, he sat for a minute in his car. Then he leaped out and ran over to our car:

"Thanks, mister," he said, mopping the pouring sweat from his brow. "I certainly appreciate you-all stopping me."

TOOLS

Upon Mount Zion shall be deliverance, and there shall be holiness; and the house of Jacob shall possess their possessions.—Obadiah 17.

What is Christian experience? In Dougals' novel, "The Robe," Demetrius who had begun the Christian way declares that it is not so much like a deed to a house as a kit of tools with which one may build a house, and that should the possessor put the tools down they are of no value until seized again. The deliverance and the holiness destined by the Eternal Father for His children await their achieving. Though gifts of God, they must be attained by spirits alert to their value.

Pross' Local Has Charter Yanked

NEW YORK—Sal Hoffman, the President of the Upholsterers' Union of North America, announces from his national headquarters in Philadelphia that he has suspended the charter of Local 661, of New York, controlled by Ben Pross, a New York crook whose career in unionism has been the subject of these dispatches intermittently for several years. Pross was Business Manager, or boss, of this small local, among many others, but his principal power is derived from his control, as Business Manager, of Local No. 1 of the Wine, Liquor and Distillery Workers.

Mr. Hoffman's New York local was formed to accommodate window dressers working for liquor stores and drifted into Pross' hands several years ago. Mr. Hoffman does not know just how it happened and the local regional office of the American Federation of Labor is similarly vague in tracing Pross' activities.

Pross had identified himself as Business Manager of United Window Trimmers' and Displaymen's Local 640 and as "boss" of Local 20734, composed of workers in the wholesale drug trade, and Local 20646, made up of workers in the soap, chemical and cosmetic trades. The dues vary but are generally $3 a month and some of Pross' subjects have complained that they never are told what is done with their money and have been so intimidated that they are afraid even to demand copies of their constitutions and the contracts between the unions and the employers.

MR. HOFFMAN lifted the charter of the small Upholsterers' Union because he found that the officials were not complying with the rules and regulations of the International. He has demanded that Pross turn over all records and other property of the local, which he probably will not do, and says he intends to eliminate not only Ben Pross but all his relatives and in-laws, several of whom have been found in controlling positions in his unions.

As long ago as 1942, the main office in Philadelphia warned the New York local to get rid of all Prosses and members of the Pross gang, but the case was neglected until the recent discovery that Ben Pross had prospered so well in unionism that he was able to buy a country estate close to that of Ed Flynn, the noted statesman of the New Deal. The General Executive Board meets in Philadelphia in July and will then plan the future of the local with the interests of the members in mind.

The lifting of this charter and the cancellation of a pistol permit held by Herbert Pross, also known as Herman and Hyman, are two recent developments in the career of the Pross family in unionism and the liquor trade. Others probably will occur soon.

A REPRESENTATIVE of the AFL recalls that Ben Pross first became a union boss shortly after the Wagner Act was passed. A group of employes of a winery in Brooklyn came in complaining that they worked for low pay under filthy conditions and wanted a union. They were told to hold a meeting and they did and Pross came out of it as Business Manager and in control. Later the local was absorbed into the national organization of the Wine, Liquor and Distillery Workers, whose headquarters are in Chicago, and he retained command, although one George Oneto was titular President, and still is.

Oneto has relatives who employ members of his own union and an official of one of the large national liquor combines flatly says that Pross once solicited bottling business for a company owned by a relative of Oneto, whose workers were Pross' subjects. His power is such, because of his control of the employes, that he is able to dictate to the large distillers how they shall allot whiskey to distributors. When he was tried on a Federal indictment charging him with sluicing whiskey into the black market, a few months ago, it was testified that Pross compelled a big distiller to cut off a supply which had been allotted to one company and divert it to another on the ground that the first company had violated its agreement with him.

THE AMERICAN Federation of Labor's attitude toward Pross is one of helplessness, even though his character is well known and one of its important officials has personally remonstrated with him for bullying rank-and-file members who went to the headquarters of their union to ask for information. He is regarded as a very energetic man and is given credit for winning some advantages for his subjects, but it is recognized also that he flouts most of the principles of the "democracy" which the professionals hold so dear in their speeches and state papers. That he has also won substantial advantages for Ben Pross and members of his remarkable family, whose bankruptcy proceedings are an amazing record, frequently marked with charges of fraud, is apparent, too.

Presented with a chance to eliminate a crook, clean up a batch of unions for the benefit of the rank and file and the good name of the national organization, the AFL again, as in many previous notorious cases, is putting it up to the victims to overthrow the tyrant. That rebels may be fired and blackballed and beaten up are probabilities established by much past experiences, but still the AFL stands aloof on the proposition that the national office has no more authority to interfere than the Government of the nation has to manage the affairs of, say Minnesota, or some small town in Minnesota.

They are getting a rough class of corrugated ambassadors minus portfolio. The last session I attended looked like a parents' meeting of the Gowanus Reform School.

You notice that old man Churchill hasn't attended any recent conferences. He's a fellow who can get mad all by himself.

Winnie has been master of ceremonies for an abdication, an invasion, a blitz and a world victory. You cannot expect him to split the billing with some obscure mug from Baluchistan whose only claim to fame is that he lives on the side of a volcano.

Have you noticed one thing about Churchill's debates? The other guy never gets a turn at the bat.

Midwest Is GOP Battle Site

CHICAGO—Harold Stassen has become the big issue in the Midwest in the Republican party.

That is so because he is making the issue—whether the party is going to become a progressive, forward-looking party, both on domestic and international issues, or whether it is going to turn backward as after World War I.

Here in the Midwest is where that decision largely may be made. This is the stronghold of the party. Here it is dominant both in Federal and local offices, except for a few Democratic foxholes in the larger cities. Consequently, the Midwest is the dominant influence in the Party in Congress, as in the Party organization. It outweighs the Eastern and Far Western wings of the Parties which are inclined to a more moderate and liberal viewpoint, both domestically and internationally.

HERE, then, is the real battleground. If the attitude of the party as a whole is moved forward, the change must come in its center of power and influence in the Middle West.

The 39-year-old ex-Governor of Minnesota and ex-Navy Captain has quite a job cut out for himself—and he knows it. His enemies in the Party are alert to his challenge. The choosing up of sides is obvious here now, Stassen and anti-Stassen. Already he is feeling the backlash of powerful forces aligned against him.

He is the target, and an open one, because he is campaigning openly for the 1948 Republican presidential nomination. His fortunes are in the balance now because he lost the first skirmish when he gambled unsuccessfully by taking sides in the recent Nebraska primary. Gov. Griswold, whom he supported, lost badly to Sen. Butler in the contest for the Republican Senatorial nomination.

His big test comes in the July 8 primary in Minnesota where he is backing Gov. Ed Thye for the Republican Senatorial nomination against the veteran isolationist, Sen. Shipstead. Defeat in his own State would count him out for the 1948 nomination.

IF HE wins, he will have a toehold for what looks now like an uphill fight, in view of other circumstances. Among these are that the old-line GOP largely is in control of State organizations in this area, and Mr. Stassen must have strong Midwest backing in the convention, since this is his home ground.

ON THE political level, the Stassen campaign is directed at winning over organization leaders below top GOP levels. Generally his appeal, too, is to the younger element in the party, as was Mr. Willkie's, and this now means, by and large, the veterans.

But Mr. Stassen has two years to go before the Republican convention, that is, if he wins his own State, and much can happen in two years. This veteran influence is likely to become important in the party. It is one of his chief hopes.

CHANNING COPE

Marylander Writes About Georgia

Athens, Georgia.

Dear Channing:

You asked me to write a sort of summary of how things in Georgia looked to a farm reporter from way up North in Maryland. Fine. I had a grand, exciting week. It started indoors with that mass meeting of two thousand Friends of the Land you put on at Atlanta, a wonderful occasion.

By Wednesday I was over in the West of your State, at Cason Callaway's. I was there for the dress rehearsals of the tour and lunch for some 700, the day before the big party. If genius is an infinite capacity for taking pains—as has been said — Cason Callaway can qualify. Every little detail of that great meeting he put on at Blue Springs Farm—down to the tiger lilies in bamboo holders that decorated the pavillion—was worked out in advance. Next to his grass-drier, which is the best I have seen, I was most impressed by his alfalfa. I was told two years ago you couldn't grow alfalfa in Georgia. This is as thick a stand as I have ever seen and they are getting five cuttings. And I don't think it grew for him simply because he has money. I think that shot of boron and 11 other minor elements Callaway gave the ground had a lot to do with it. That's something for more Georgia farmers to investigate. Minor elements do their work short shots, small quantities, low cost. A conservative college chemist in New Jersey told me recently that one-quarter of the soils of that state need a little shot of boron.

Tom Asbury of SCS drove me from there to Athens and I put in a morning at the Watkinsville station near by. Every Georgian who loves the land should go there, see the miracle of subsoil farming these quiet Government men are performing, and checking an actual tenant farmer who is farming for a living, and making a good one, right there in the middle of the experimental plots. B. H. Hendrickson has some new figures on step-up in the humus content of that soil that are mighty hopeful. They explain, I think, why driving next day out toward Augusta I saw so much more vigor, life, color, vitality and growth, including human growth, on a landscape that I remembered from 20 years back as gashed, cotton-racked, dim, gray, dingy. It is a miracle! But plain farmers did it. You told me on my last trip down here, Channing, last November, that sericia was possibly a greater story in these parts than kudzu. Check!

I am going home with a bale of notes to write something about this week's experience for my own magazine, The Land, and maybe for some other magazines of larger circulation. One reason, I suppose, I feel so closely akin to this redland country of yours is that I am a redlander, too, in Maryland. I think that the surge of recovery in farming you have put on here in Georgia is the greatest agricultural story in the United States today. And I think that when historians come to sum up the Rooseveltian New Deal, they will write that the Soil Conservation District, a device developed to let people in on effective government at the groundline, was the most permanent and important thing about the whole movement. It is a new form of American Government, with the people themselves running it. It is democratic—and will be more so when they begin letting some good tenants as Supervisors. And it works. It works wonders. People have an awful lot of sense and get up and go, Channing, if they can just get it harnessed and out to go. Soil districts do that.

I'll be back soon. I just can't seem to stay away from this part of the country. So much that is good and fundamental is going on so fast here in Georgia that when I get home and people ask about Georgia's politics, I won't know. Everybody I met was talking about real problems, real ground-line improvement. God speed the work!

RUSSELL LORD.

Passenger Car Results Far Below Schedule

DETROIT, June 26—(AP)—A total of 654,000 passenger cars, more than 1,680,000 below scehdule, were turned out during the first six months of 1946, the Automobile Manufacturers Association reported Wednesday.

General Manager George W. Romney reported an estimated $1,500,000,000 in sales have been lost already this year and that additional loss is anticipated.

The individual companies, according to Romney, reported to the War Production Board in 1945 schedules for this year which called for assembly and delivery to dealers of 2,320,000 cars by the end of June.

In contrast to an anticipated midyear production schedule of 500,000 cars per month, Romney said, only 140,000 will be assembled in June.

Romney listed the following factors which he said contributed to the low production curve:

Strikes in vehicle manufacturing plants, suppliers strikes, shortages of materials "directly or indirectly caused by restrictive governmental policies," labor productivity, and coal and steel strikes.

CUPIDITY

U. S. Cracks Down on Love 'Racket'

DETROIT, June 26—(AP)—Hazeleye Evelyn Katherine Stanton, 25, who advertised herself as in love with "fantasy and romance," was indicted by a Federal Grand Jury Wednesday on a six-count charge of using the mails to defraud the men who wooed her.

Postoffice Inspector Raymond C. Miller said the attractive mother of three children, employed as a car-hop at a barbecue stand, accepted money from at least six men to whom she promised herself in marriage. She married and deserted two of them, he added.

He estimated that she obtained at least $2,000 and two diamond rings from her various suitors.

In March, 1945, Miss Stanton inserted the following advertisement in "Cupid's Columns," which Inspector Miller described as a matrimonial paper published in St. Paul, Minn.:

"Very fond of music. Love poetry, fantasy, romance and all fun. Alert and on guard constantly. Desire home and true companionship. Have a beautiful form. Look very smart in anything I wear, from overalls to a misty formal. Age 24, five feet six, and 127 pounds. Brown hair, hazel eyes. Not handsome but nice. Carefree and love adventure, though of best character. Trustworthy and good Christian. Always pleasant."

Miller said the advertisement brought proposals of marriage, plus traveling expenses, from besmitten males in Gilroy, Cal., Del Rios, Cal., Springfield, Mass., Nashville, Tenn., Dennison, Minn., and Star Prairie, Wis. All were accepted by Miss Stanton, the Inspector said.

Draja's Men Mass Slayers, Say Peasants

BELGRADE, June 26—(AP)—A group of Serb peasants took the witness stand Wednesday at the trial of Gen. Draja Mihailovic and told with gruesome detail how men they identified as Chetniks slaughtered the inhabitants of three villages near Belgrade in 1943 and 1944.

Four Serbs from Boleck testified that Chetniks raided the village one Winter night in 1943, plundered the residents and carried out mass slaughters. They said the raiders announced they were "fighting for King and Country against the Communists."

One gray-haired peasant, Ilija Ilich, exhibited in the courtroom a red-stained cradle in which he said he had seen a four-month-old baby lying with its throat slit the day after Christmas. Six men in the household—all friends of his—were slain, Ilich testified.

"It was terrible," he declared.

"How do you know the Chetniks did it?" the witness was asked by the President of the Court.

"Because I saw them," Ilich replied. "While I was burying them the Chetniks were roasting a cow in a near-by field."

The prosecution indictment charges that a total of 72 residents of Bolech were killed by the raiders.

Mihailovic, directed by the Court to confront the Bolech witnesses, denied that the men were acting under his orders. When the baby's cradle was exhibited in the courtroom, the Chetnik leader was told to look at it and was asked:

"Is this the execution of your order to purge the Communists?"

"No, never," replied Mihailovic.

Key West Polio On Decline After 2 Deaths

KEY WEST, Fla., June 26—(AP)—Two deaths from infantile paralysis have been reported here, but medical officers said Wednesday new cases of the disease which had reached epidemic proportions in the Key West area are on the decline.

Lt. Comdr. Charles B. Wright, 32, USNR, of Minneapolis, Minn., died in the Naval Hospital two days after being admitted. The second victim was Pvt. Dean Grant Payne, 19, USA, of Breckenridge, Texas, who had been in an iron lung since he was brought to the hospital six days ago.

Capt. W. D. Davis, medical officer in charge of the hospital, said Wright was the only case reported in the last three days and that two patients had been discharged.

There have been two other deaths from polio in Key West.

Fifteen cases are being treated in the Naval Hospital and nine others from Key West have been sent to Jackson Memorial Hospital in Miami.

Wright entered the hospital Sunday just two weeks after his wife, an expectant mother, was admitted to the polio ward.

FAINTS, SURVIVES 3-STORY FALL

PHILADELPHIA, June 26—(AP)—A woman telephone operator fainted and toppled over a stairway banister into the City Hall rotunda Wednesday but survived a three-story fall—because she fainted.

Hospital physicians said 50-year-old Mrs. Josephine C. Soper suffered a right leg fracture and head injuries but apparently was saved from more serious hurts by relaxation of her body when she fainted.

Delta Cites Importance of New Flight

WASHINGTON, June 26—(AP)—A Delta Air Lines official said Wednesday his Company cannot expect to compete with Eastern Air Lines so long as it must cooperate with other carriers to duplicate Eastern routes.

Laigh C. Parker, Vice President of Delta in charge of traffic, testified at a Civil Aeronautics Board hearing that two-carrier competition is always at a disadvantage against direct service by one firm.

Under cross-examination by Eastern Attorney Harold Russell, he said Delta cannot expect to get a great deal of Atlanta-New York traffic so long as it has to fly passengers to Cincinnati and depend upon another airline to take them from there to New York.

"I think we have gone about as far as we can," Parker said. "The public has shown a preference for one-carrier service."

Delta, Eastern and 13 other airlines have applied for new routes linking Boston, New York, Atlanta and New Orleans.

Parker estimated that if Delta's application for through Atlanta-New York service is granted, his Company will receive about 40 percent of the business and Eastern will retain about 60 percent.

Total traffic will be increased considerably, however, so that Eastern will still have more business than it does now, he said.

4-Point, 20-Year Plan Urged To Create New State Wealth

Constitution State News Service.

CARTERSVILLE, June 26—In an address to the Lions Club at the Braban Hotel, Wellington Wright, of The Atlanta Constitution News Staff, advocated a non-partisan four-point, 20-year program for creating new wealth in Georgia.

"The main problem that we face today in Georgia," said Wright, "is that we haven't enough wealth to provide a large enough base for taxation. And without that base we cannot raise enough money through taxes to provide sufficiently for our schools, to furnish the social services and hospital facilities that we need, or to build the roads that the farmers of the State ought to have."

To overcome that difficulty, Wright urged a four-point program on the basis of a 20-year plan. That follows:

1. Push diversified farming all over the State, with the encouragement of processing plants, locally owned and locally managed and each dependent for its supplies upon the natural and the agricultural resources of its own area.

2. Modern methods of reforestation whereby the State's income from forest products may be tripled in a 20-year period.

3. Multi-purpose development of Georgia's inland waterways, with special emphasis upon soil conservation, reforestation, navigation, electric power and tourist possibilities.

4. A concerted move to build up the tourist industry as big business in such a way that within 10 or 15 years Georgia may obtain at least $300,000,000 in out-of-State money from the tourist business.

"If we solve that main problem of creating a sufficiently large volume of new wealth in Georgia, then many other problems, such as the race problem, will tend to solve themselves," said Wright. "Only by creating new wealth can we hope to meet the exigencies of the economic pressures that now exist."

The Lions were unanimous in asserting that this program, or one similar to it, should be adopted in this State on the strictly non-partisan basis suggested by the speaker.

Bandits Make $160,000 Haul Near Tel Aviv

JERUSALEM, Palestine, June 26— (UP) —Forty Jews, armed with sub-machineguns and pistols, held up a diamond polishing plant near Tel Aviv Wednesday and escaped with $120,000 to $160,000 worth of stones.

The robbery evidently was carefully planned and executed. Part of the bandit gang surrounded the building and cut the telephone lines. The others gathered up the diamonds, and then the whole gang fled.

NEW YORK, June 26—(AP)—Selective recoveries among rails and industrials steadied the stock market to some extent today, but a number of "thin" blue chips continued to dip 1 to 4 points on light transactions while many leaders edged into lower territory.

Timid bids appeared in the final hour on the idea the list may have been oversold. While declines were well in the majority at the close, a number of pivotals finished with plus signs. Dealings, slack most of the time, turned fairly active at intervals and transfers totaled 1,020,000 shares compared with 880,000 Tuesday.

Speculative and investment caution again was attributed mainly to doubts regarding the compromise price control legislation and the thought that corporate net might be affected in coming months by consumer opposition to rising costs.

Declines ranging to two points or more were encountered by a wide selection of railroad obligations in today's bond market. Offerings failed to attain much volume. Principal losers were secondary liens of reorganization roads. A number of Missouri Pacific issues were actively lower.

Retreating in the curb were American Gas, Raymond Concrete, Solar Manufacturing, Starrett Corporation, Electric Bond & Share and U. S. Foil "B." Turnover here was 390,000 shares versus 370,000 yesterday.

'Can't Remember' Degnan Suspect Says in Note

PHOENIX, Ariz., June 26—(AP) Richard R. Thomas, 42-year-old painter who police say maintains he killed Susanne Degnan and dismembered her body in Chicago, wrote a note in his jail cell early Wednesday in which Sheriff E. W. Roach reported he said, "I don't know why these people torture me because I can't remember every detail."

The note, written in pencil on a wrinkled piece of wrapping paper, was handed by Thomas to the night jailer, Roach said. It was unsigned.

"I never could remember everything when I was sick like that," the note read. . . . "I get those awful feelings often, but when something bad happens, then they are gone."

"There were two or three detective magazines here in jail with stories about the Chicago case," the note continued, "but I would not even read about it, so you see, if I wanted to make up a story I could have read all the details . . . but as it is I was too frantic."

Roach said he was awaiting arrival of two Chicago law enforcement officers as the next step toward verification of Thomas' statement he killed the Degnan child last Jan. 7.

Forrestal Pledges Merger Support

WASHINGTON, June 26—(UP) President Truman has received a pledge of full co-operation from Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal in his program to unify the armed forces under a single department of national defense, the White House announced Wednesday.

Forrestal, who left here by airplane Sunday to witness the Bikini atom bomb test, thanked the Chief Executive, in a letter dated June 24, for "listening patiently" to the Navy's opposition to various features of the merger plan, and added:

"You may be assured of my desire and that of Adm. (Chester W.) Nimitz (Chief of Naval Operations) to co-operate with you fully in the effort to achieve the objectives of your program."

New V-12 Chief At Tech Pledges Worthy Sailors

If the ghost of John Paul Jones still stalks the seven seas he's going to be mighty proud of the Navy's V-12 graduates of Georgia Tech, when they take their places as officers of the nation's mightiest men-of-war.

This is the promise of Capt. Josephus A. Briggs, newly appointed Professor of Naval Science, and Commanding Officer of Tech's V-12 program.

Capt. Briggs has come to Tech fresh from command of the Naval Air Station in Washington, D. C. He succeeds Capt. Robert Strite, USNR, who is due to drop his

Capt. J. A. Briggs — Capt. Robert Strite

Navy career to become Tech's new comptroller.

Capt. Briggs is strictly Navy. He has been since the day he entered the Naval Academy at Annapolis, from which he was graduated in 1923.

FROM THE LAND

Like many another good sailor, Capt. Briggs traveled overland to the sea. He was born in Sidney, Neb., where he learned his love of firearms and of hunting. He is looking forward to the wild game shooting of the Georgia hills, and to the duck hunting in the marginal lands of the State.

Following graduation from the Academy, Capt. Briggs served on many ships. During 1930-32 he got his first taste of teaching, as Officer in Charge of the Battle Force and Fire Control School. Then followed a tour of duty as a student at Pensacola, Fla., where he mastered both gliders and powered aircraft.

It was in Pensacola Capt. Briggs found his love for flying, a job and a hobby he has no intention of forsaking.

"I'm an active aviator," he said, "and I'll continue to be one."

In 1937 he became officer in charge of the experimental Aircraft Torpedo Development Squadron at Newport, Rhode Island. Later he commanded the USS Greene, a seaplane tender, in South America and the West Indies where he saw anti-submarine service in the early days of the war.

FROM HOT TO COLD

The Navy makes great changes suddenly, and Capt. Briggs found himself transported from the balmy South Atlantic to the regions of Iceland, this time in command of the USS Barnegat, where, until October, 1942, he helped provide the air umbrella for convoys to Russia. In November of that year he, and the Barnegat, moved on the Invasion of Africa.

And then he moved to the Pacific. There Capt. Briggs, commanding the USS Hogatt, fought in the Philippines, Okinawa and in Japan.

Now, in his new post, Capt. Briggs said:

"The Navy plans to indoctrinate the V-12 officer candidates so they will step onto the mightiest of ships and take their places beside Academy men.

"My first interest is to do a good job for the Navy."

Capt. Briggs and his wife live at 4177 Wieuca Rd. with their son, Josephus, Jr., a lieutenant in the Army Air Forces. A second son, Robert, is a seaman, first class, in the Navy, and Capt. Briggs hopes he is destined to Annapolis.

ELIZABETH WOODWARD SAYS:

Flirting and Chasing Boys Are Two Different Subjects

Some of you girls think nice girls don't flirt. It's a form of behavior closely allied to chasing the boys. But there is a difference.

Sashaying around street corners . . . hanging out in the drug-store minding everybody's business . . . swishing a come-on to boys you don't know . . . perching yourself on the life guard's stand at the beach . . . standing by for long chats with the boy who takes movie tickets . . . chattering into the ear of the bus driver . . . all of those things are making a nuisance of you. But flirting's different.

YOU DO IT EVERY DAY

You want a new dress to wear to the Saturday night dance. Mother cast an eye over your wardrobe and announced firmly that you have several things you could wear . . . you don't really need a new dress. But you want it! So you campaign. You offer to do the dishes all by yourself so she can go to the early movie with Dad and have a real date. You say, "Oh, don't bother, Mother . . . you're much too busy . . . I'll press that for you!" You ask her advice about the feud you're having with Nancy. You suggest that a family picnic would be fun . . . particularly if you fix the food. You make up to your Mother for all you're worth. And you don't see anything wrong in that!

You want your allowance increased. So you go to work on your Dad. You climb into his lap, you ruffle his hair, you fetch his slippers, you offer to help him with the gardening . . . you buy him some of his favorite pipe tobacco with your own money. You do everything you can think of to please him. You're the loveliest daughter he could possibly have. You're sweet and considerate, you're playful and friendly. You show your affection for him. You're flirting with him, you know.

AND WITH THE BOYS

You flirt at home when you want to put your personality across. When you want your Mother and Dad to love you enough to give you the specific little things you think you want at the moment. And you don't consider that wrong.

It's the same with the boys. You make motions that indicate that you know they're alive. That they interest you. You smile a come-on . . you play up to their hero egos . . . you flatter them . . . you tease them . . . you wait on them and do them favors. That's flirting. But it's really being nothing more than friendly and interested. It's the way to prove that you're not a stick-in-the-mud . . . but a lively girl who likes to please and who wants to have her friends like her. That's quite different from chasing the boys!

Council To Act On Ordinance For Bond Vote

Asst. City Atty. J. Charlie Murphy has announced that a bond ordinance setting an election Aug. 14 for the City's $20,400,000 share of a joint Fulton County-Atlanta $40,400,000 bond issue for public improvements will be read for Council action at Monday's session.

The Murphy statement came as reports circulated that an agreement has been made between Fulton and DeKalb County, City and State Highway officials to launch an immediate survey, designed to solve the traffic problems of the metropolitan area.

Although details of the agreement were not announced, it was said that City and State Engineers will begin a survey inside the City, and State and County Engineers will be called on to make a similar survey of contiguous territory along with State Engineers. The County plans would complement those made by the City, under the program.

State officials informed local officials, including Mayor Hartsfield, that the joint program must be developed by June 30, 1947, if it is to receive maximum Federa laid.

H. W. Lochner & Company and associates have completed a survey of the area at a cost of approximately $80,000, but the new survey has been pressed by City Administration leaders, who contend that the routes should be fixed definitely.

It is expected that Council Monday will approve the bond ordinance and send the proposal to the people for ratification in the Aug. 14 election at which Atlanta and Fulton County citizens will pass on financing the $40,400,000 joint issue which would provide more than $80,000,000 in improvements including State and Federal aid.

General Griswold Takes Command Third Army Area

Lt. Gen. Oscar W. Griswold, a fighting general whose Fourteenth Army Corps played a major role in United States victories across the Pacific, was thinking only of peace—and the need to preserve it—as he assumed command here yesterday of the Third Army Area and the Seventh Army.

Gen. Griswold is a large, ruddy-complexioned man whose gray hair is clipped GI-fashion. He has a keen sense of humor, is soft-spoken and doesn't like even a little to be called a "blood-and-thunder soldier" — despite his countless blood-and-thunder experiences on the battlefield.

Lt. Gen. Griswold

War is a terrible thing, he says. In fact, it's just what Sherman said it was. And Gen. Griswold was sincerely personified as he declared:

"There is nothing, absolutely nothing that I hope more devoutly than to see the abolition of all war."

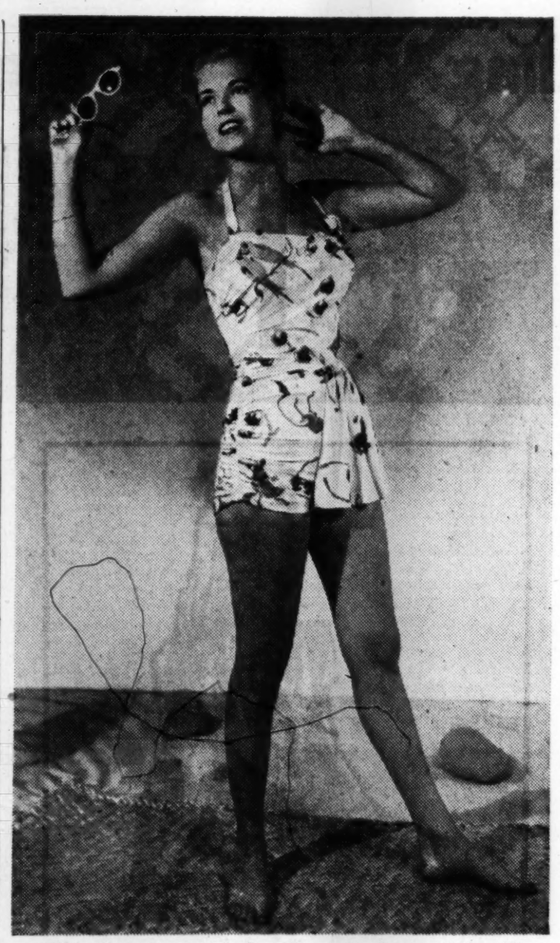

He believes that the salvation of the United States and the world depends on "making the United Nations work in some form or other." Anything that we can do to make it work, he is convinced, will be the "greatest boon to civilization the world has ever known."

No superlative is too good to be applied to the United States, in the opinion of Gen. Griswold, for it unquestionably is "the greatest country in the world."

However, he fears that the youth of the country does not appreciate fully the benefits and advantages here. And he believes that universal military training would help young men of the nation to realize the importance of preserving their way of life.

Yet this is only one of several reasons Gen. Griswold cited in indorsing universal military training. First of all, he maintains that this country "must be strong" so that when she speaks, her voice not only will be heard but will be heeded. A weak man, he explained, has little prestige.

War Cheaters Liquidated, Reds Report

LONDON, June 26 — (UP) — Russia announced a sweeping purge of top-ranking industrial executives on fraud charges Wednesday and divulged that untold thousands of people in the liquidated Crimean and Chechen-Ingush republics had been "transported to other areas" for mass disloyalty during the war.

Moscow newspapers devoted three columns to an announcement that industrial executives all over the Soviet Union—as far east as Tomsk, Siberia — were being prosecuted on fraud and graft charges.

Disclosure of the mass resettlement of disloyal peoples in two former autonomous republics was made before the presidium of the Russian Supreme Soviet or Parliament.

The Crimean and Chechen-Ingush republics were quietly liquidated more than seven months ago, and it was known that the reason was that many of the population aided the German invaders at a critical time in the war. Many of the men turned up as soldiers in the German army later.

Wednesday's disclosure came in the form of a statement made to the presidium of the Supreme Soviet by its secretary, M. M. Bakhmurov.

"Many Chechens and Crimean Tatars, instigated by German agents, joined volunteer detachments set up by the Germans and jointly with German troops waged an armed struggle against Red Army units," Bakhmurov reported. "Following German instructions they set up saboteur gangs to fight against the Sovie power in the rear.

"The bulk of the Chechen-Ingush and Crimean population did not offer opposition to these traitors.

"In view of this Chechens and Crimean Tatars were transported to other districts of the Soviet Union where they were allotted land and rendered the necessary state assistance in economic settlement."

Vacation Wardrobe Must Fit Chosen Spot and Activities

By WINIFRED WARE

Americans are vacation-minded this year as never before. Everyone seems bent on taking that trip which had to be deferred until after the war. Old cars, difficulty in getting reservations at the beach or mountain resort and other vexing problems fail to lessen the general enthusiasm for a holiday. Georgia's coastal resorts, pleasant spots for vacationing, are being discovered by an increasing number of vacationers not only from the South but from all over the States. The General Oglethorpe, on Wilmington Island, off Savannah, recently had among its guests people from New Jersey, New York City, Long Island, Louisville, Texas, and one couple from London, England. Many of the guests were honeymooning couples and many families were vacationing together, obviously happy at having father back in the fold and in civilian clothes.

A suitable wardrobe is of primary importance to the vacationist and for two excellent reasons, one being the matter of sheer comfort and utility, the other for presenting a pretty, well-groomed appearance, thus promoting that poise and assurance which only a feeling of being suitably and beautifully dressed can give to a man or woman.

Wherever one chooses to go on vacation, and one's favorite activities will, of course, be the determining factors in the choice of clothes for the trip. However, I should like to suggest that a good sun-proof, non-shrinkable, non-fading swim suit is the basis of any vacation wardrobe. If practicable, it might be the type that can be used for swimming or sunning, though really good swimmers and diving addicts generally prefer a very streamlined suit, and do not go in for the kind with a skirt. The skirted ones are more flattering to mature figures. If you have a spare tire around the middle, even a little one, please, please do not choose a two-piece midriff version sun or swim suit. The playsuit with matching, easily slipped on skirt is by far the most utilitarian garment one can pack in the vacation bag. Some of these now have long skirts which may go dancing on the moonlit terrace, and the short skirt is most handily buttoned on at mealtime. Most resort hotels frown upon shorts, swim suits and other abbreviated attire in the dining room, and some forbid it even at breakfast. Whether permitted at any time or not, swim suits and shorts do not look well in the dining room, or for lounging indoors. On the sun patio, at the pool or beach, the tennis or badminton court, for boating, fishing or other outdoor place of activity, very brief play and sunsuits may be fully enjoyed. But at all resorts except a private estate or some spot as casual as a fishing camp, skirts are in order when women come indoors. Swim and playclothes are not for the bars either, so unless you're sure of the dress habits and requirements of the place you've selected take along an extra skirt or so, and plenty of cool cotton dresses. Take along, too, a dress for dancing, either short or long, and one dark frock completely accessorized with hat, for going into town and to church on Sunday morning.

Take plenty of comfortable shoes, mostly the casual play type; take a beach coat for wear between hotel and pool or beach, and one light jacket for evenings which at the beach or in the mountains are cool enough for a light wrap when one is out-of-doors or riding in a car. If vacationing in the mountains, take plenty of shirts and several pairs of well-fitted slacks, at least one pair of flannel ones.

Tuck into the vacation bag a good tube of suntan cream or a bottle of oil to protect the skin from sun-burning, and take a small bottle or tube of shampoo. Likely as not you'll find it necessary to do your own hair, and it will need more "doing" if you're sunning or swimming a lot.

SALLY FORTH Says:

South Americans Arrive To Visit Mr., Mrs. Lacour

Few households can boast of more attractive and interesting visitors than those of the Albert Lacours. Ruth and Arthur C. Lacour arrived recently from Barranca Bermeja, Colombia, South America, to spend the Summer with their brother and sister at their home on Adair Avenue. In addition to these prominent visitors, the Lacours' pretty daughter, Pollie, has as her guest Mary Judson Lilly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lilly, of Valdosta. Mr. and Mrs. Lilly will spend the weekend at the Georgian Terrace and on Monday morning, bright and early, will motor back to Valdosta, accompanied by their daughter and Pollie.

No sooner had the South American visitors reached the city than the Lacour brothers departed for Peoria, Ill., where they will spend 10 days with their 86-year-old father. Albert and his wife, who usually visit the States every two years, in order to lay in enough supplies to last them for two years, haven't been to Atlanta in four years and a number of informal social affairs are being planned in their honor.

Arthur has been affiliated with the Tropical Oil Company in South America for 19 years. His wife, the former Ruth Day, of Denver, Col., does all of the grade school teaching of American and Canadian children on the lease, and so well does she prepare them that those who return to the States enter high school with the greatest of ease.

In Barranca Bermeja, according to Ruth, zennias are worn instead of orchids on very special occasions, for, while orchids can be found in practically every nook and cranny, it takes skill to grow the coveted zennias.

Florence and Albert have just had another treat. Their son, Albert, Jr., who is with the Navy, stationed at San Syidro, Cal., has just written them that he hopes to be out of the service in August.

PARTY AT SERVICEMEN'S SHELTER

Activities are very alive this Summer around the Servicemen's Shelter, located on the Carroll McGaugheys' lovely grounds near Dunwoody, where convalescing servicemen have enjoyed so many happy hours during the past several years. Yesterday a group of attractive belles acted as hostesses to 25 boys from Fort McPherson, who spent the afternoon picnicking and frolicing, with no fear of rain, for the shelter, which has been in process of construction for two years, now has a roof on it.

These delightful parties will continue throughout the Summer months for wounded veterans and servicemen, and persons desiring to sponsor them may contact Mrs. Connie Lewis, Servicemen's Center, or the Red Cross at Hospital 48.

A GAY WEEKEND

Within the brief span of 24 hours, Dr. and Mrs. Murdock Equen and their daughters, Anne and Carol, went to Greenwood, Miss., where they attended a barbecue, a buffet supper, a family reunion, made a tour of a delta plantation of several thousand acres, and returned home. It all began when Dr. Equen's brother, Standard Equen, invited the Atlantans to his home for a family reunion last Saturday. The Atlanta Equens boarded a plane and flew to Mississippi, where they gathered with 17 other members of the family at Moundland, the plantation home of Standard Equen, at Minter City, just outside Greenwood.

A real old-fashioned barbecue, with all of the "trimmings" and plantation servants in attendance, was served in the yard under century-old elm trees. A round of entertainments were planned for the visitors over the weekend, and Sunday evening the Atlanta travelers were safely back at their Habersham Road residence, still dreaming of their glorious trip. But additional dreams filled the pretty blond heads of Anne and Carol, for they are getting ready to leave again, this time for Atlantic Beach, Fla. They depart on Monday, accompanied by their cousin, Mrs. Jack Ward, of Greenwood, who will join them here for the trip.

She wore an ice blue net and taffeta dress and carried a nosegay of mixed flowers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Dr. H. W. Lanford, wore a dress of white satin. Her long veil fell from a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white rose buds and maline centered with a white orchid, and showered with white rose buds.

ACCLAIMED GEORGIA'S BEST

Boys, Girls of the Year See Atlanta, Get Awards

By CELESTINE SIBLEY

Blonde Patsey Murray, of Ashburn, looked through the little peep hole in the side of the giant 10-story boiler at Plant Atkinson, watched the rainbow-hued flames swirling against the red-hot pipes a moment and brought her face away, pinking and stinging from the heat.

"Gosh," she breathed, mopping her face vigorously, "I'm glad we're good citizens!"

Patsy is a good citizen—and so are the 60-odd teen-age boys and girls who were accompanying her on the conducted tour of Georgia's mightiest electric power plant out on the Chattahoochee River. In fact, by choice of their towns people, they have been acclaimed the flower of the State's young citizenry: The boys and girls of the year.

Their visit to Atlanta and to such points of interest as Plant Atkinson, the Cyclorama, the Grant Park Zoo, ending last night with a banquet at the Ansley Hotel, was the climax of a year of achievement.

GOVERNOR SPEAKS

Gov. Arnall and Morgan Blake, Chairman of the Junior Citizenship section of the Citizens' Council, were the principal speakers at last night's banquet, awarding certificates of recognition to the boys and girls whose records of achievement in their respective communities have won for them the acclaim of educational and civic leaders throughout the State.

The young people, so dignified and mannerly that one of the Georgia Power Company bus drivers who drove them around Atlanta yesterday is still gaping with astonishment at their behavior, came in by bus and train and were quartered last night at Georgia Tech and Oglethorpe University.

BUS DRIVERS ENCOMIUM

"Quiet? You never saw the like," said the bus driver. "They look like regular high school kids —but they behave like grown folks."

The "grown folks"-acting youngsters, ranging in age from 15 to 18 or 19, were the guests yesterday of Atlanta's Women of the Year, Mrs. Mamie K. Taylor, who with W. E. Mitchell, President of the Power company, entertained them with a box luncheon at Plant Atkinson and then took them on the sight-seeing junket. The majority of them were of voting age, several of the boys had seen war service and a good many of them are farm-bred with impressive 4-H records.

Lucile Gillstrap, of Trion, who helped her father weather the labor shortage on his 100-acre farm by driving a tractor for him, eyed approvingly the fried chicken and ham and biscuit sandwiches Mrs. Taylor had provided.

SCHOLARSHIPS AWARDED

Lucile and the other Trion youngsters of the year, Jack Poole, Ralph Shamlee and Ruby Langston, were awarded $150 scholarships to the college of their choice. Lucile's choice is the Martha Berry School, where she hopes to get on the tractor squad.

Others like Billy Cox and Winifred Smith, of Claxton, were presented war bonds by the citizens of their town and Charles Logan Ray, Jr., and Theresa di Christina, of Atlanta, were given $500 war bonds by John S. Blick.

The Claxton Boy and Girl of the Year were accompanied by Mrs. R. E. L. Majors, of the Claxton Enterprise, who served on the Citizenship Committee. Miss Martha Pope Brown, Dean of Women at Oglethorpe, and Prof. Edwin H. Folk, of Georgia Tech, served as local hosts.

"There can't be anything wrong with Georgia—and never will be as long as we can assemble a crowd like this!"

Gov. Arnall was speaking of—and to—the orchidaceous collection of Georgia young people, who last night accepted certificates of recognition for achievement in their respective communities all over the State. The ceremonl, held at the Ansley Hotel, climaxed an Atlanta tour honoring 60-odd youthful Georgians selected by their home towns for the Georgia Citizen's Council award as "boys and girls of the year."

Before a final formal dance, the honorees, dressed in swishing long dresses and Sunday suits, were banqueted and commended by their Governor and Atlanta's Mayor Hartsfield as "Georgia's most precious asset."

CITIZENS OF THE YEAR, JUNIOR DIVISION—Gov. Arnall greets Al Parris, of Cedartown (left), Martha Claire Lee, of Dallas, and Anne Irwin, 1284 Emory Circle, Atlanta, three of 60 young Georgians who were chosen by their communities as the Boys and Girls of the Year. They spent the day seeing points of interest in Atlanta.

UNITED STATES FREES ARGENTINE GOLD

BUENOS AIRES, June 26—(AP) The United States has released 2,550,000,000 pesos ($644,000,000) in gold—the bulk of Argentine funds which were frozen in the U. S. during the Summer of 1944, the Foreign Office has announced.

The announcement added that the United States was studying the disposition of Argentine funds still frozen in America, consisting of deposits of the Banco de la Nacion and the Banco de la Provincia, totaling 25,000,000 pesos.

Daughter Is Born To Woman Candidate

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 26—(AP) Tennessee's only woman aspirant to the Governor's chair—Mrs. Lee Richardson, Memphis housewife—presented her husband with their fifth child—a daughter.

The confinement for this birth made it necessary for Mrs. Richardson to limit her campaigning for the gubernatorial nomination in the Aug. 1 Democratic primary to "writing letters to editors of newspapers."

The Richardsons have four boys: Bobby, 9; Donny, 7; Jerry, 6, and Glen, 1.

In making announcement of her intentions to seek the Governor's office, Mrs. Richardson likened the Executive's duties to those of a housewife and mother.

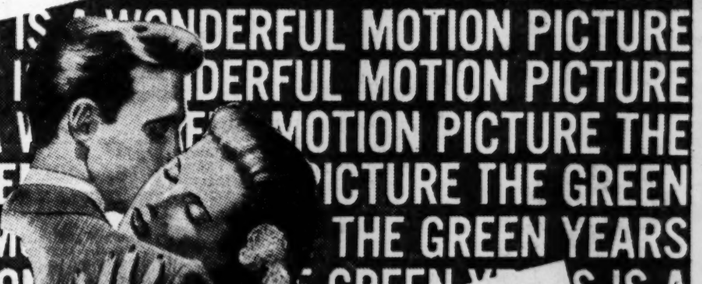

"The only difference is in the size of the family," she wrote. "If the people of Tennessee see fit to elect me to the Governorship, I shall follow the same principles in dealing with State matters."

Mrs. Richardson is 30 years old and her husband is a railroad fireman. She has no organized support in her political ambitions.

THE LADY WON A CAR—Miss Pauline Singer, of 499 Winton Terrace, N. E., won a 1946 Nash Ambassador in a nation-wide contest sponsored by the Quaker Oats Company. Here she accepts the keys of the car from James M. Roseff, Manager of the Atlanta Sales Office of the Quaker Oats Company. Looking on from the other side of the car are (left to right) J. A. Bowen, Jr., sales representative of the Quaker Oats Company; A. L. Christian, Assistant Zone Manager of the Nash Motors Division; W. L. Guckert, Assistant Manager of the Quaker Oats Company in Atlanta, and Martin Johnson, of the Martin Johnson Motor Company, Nash dealer, and the winner can't drive.

CAN'T DRIVE

Atlantan Wins Car In Contest

She wrote 200 words and won a car.

Miss Pauline Singer, of 499 Winton Terrace, N. E., wrote a sentence explaining why she thought Quaker Oats is "America's Best Loved Cereal," and submitted it in a nation-wide contest. Yesterday she was presented a major prize—a beautiful ghost gray Nash Ambassador—by the Quaker Oats Company.

"It's the most wonderful thing that ever happened to me," said the tall, brunette Miss Singer.

Miss Singer's prize was one of six automobiles awarded by the Quaker Oats Company. The Company also gave 650 smaller prizes. The car was presented to the Atlantan by James M. Roseff, Manager of the Atlanta Sales Office of the Quaker Oats Company, through the Martin Johnson Motor Company, Nash dealer.

The fact that she doesn't know how to drive is not bothering Miss Singer.

"I'll learn," she declares.

Entering contests is a hobby with Miss Singer. Several years ago, she won a refrigerator. She has won a number of minor prizes, but this time, she says, "I hit the jackpot!"

French Assembly Okays Bidault's New Government

PARIS, June 26—(AP)—The French Constituent Assembly voted approval of Pres. Georges Bidault's new coalition government, 517 to 4.

The President had called earlier for a truce among political parties and promised France would "maintain our friendships and alliances with the great peoples who were our allies in the war and in the victory."

He stood by his financial program of wage increases not exceeding 15 percent, as against a demand of the powerful general Confederation of Labor for a 25 percent increase.

Adolphus Is Approved

The Senate has approved the nomination of George W. Adolphus to be Postmaster at Sandy Springs, according to a news dispatch by the Associated Press from Washington.

ON THE AIR

By PAUL JONES

The quaint way in which news was covered during the hoop-skirt era will receive a facetious expression tonight when "Jonathan Trimble, Esq.", a Gay Nineties show features headlines taken from The Constitution of 1905 Saturday night beginning at 8:30.

The program, a regular feature of WATL and the Mutual Broadcasting System, will quote the headlines carried in the paper of that year, drawing a comparison between the headline news of the horse and carriage period and the modern scientific era of today.

Food rationing is one of the most controversial questions of today. In its usual timely fashion, "America's Town Meeting of the Air" will present four speakers in a discussion of "Is Food Rationing Necessary to Prevent Videspread Starvation?" during the program scheduled at 7:30 tonight on WAGA. Taking the affirmative will be Rev. George D. Aiken and Harold Weston, Executive Director of Food for Freedom, Inc. Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper and Fred H. Sexauer, farm leader and former President and Director of the Dairymen's League Co-operative Association, will argue the negative view.

Azerbaijan Chief Poison Plot Laid to Reds

TEHRAN, June 26—(AP)—A diplomatic informant said Wednesday that dissatisfied Communist extremists last week made an attempt on the life of Jafar Pishevari, Azerbaijan chieftain, by poisoning.

Thirty underlings in the plot were jailed, but the most important figures, some of whom were reported to have played leading roles in Azerbaijan since the province proclaimed its autonomy during the Soviet occupation, were not arrested by the authorities, the informant said.

The British Consul General at Tabriz, was fired on last Sunday by Communist extremists attempting to free from jail the 30 who were arrested, the source said, and the situation in the Azerbaijan capital was described as tense.

BUNGLE NOT, WAIT NOT, OFFICIALS TELL SEEKERS OF DRIVER LICENSES

A plea for care in filing out drivers' license applications went out to Georgia motorists yesterday as the State Department of Public Safety continued to process thousands of applications.

Department officials said one of the biggest headaches comes from incorrectly filled out applications from those seeking dependent's licenses.

They pointed out that the top stub on a dependent's license application should contain the old license number of the head of the family and not the number of the applicant.

This frequent error, they said, is one of the main reasons why those standing in line must have their applications checked by an official before the application can be validated.

Arnall, Griswold and Barby To Speak Here on Fourth

Gov. Arnall, Vice Adm. Daniel E. Barby, Commander of the Amphibious Forces of the Atlantic Fleet; Lt. Gen. Oscar W. Griswold, Commander of the United States Seventh Army, and representatives of various religious and racial groups will speak at the homecoming celebration to be held at 3 p. m. at Stone Mountain July 4, it was announced yesterday by William G. McRae, Commander of the Fifth District of the American Legion.

The ceremonies at Stone Mountain will be preceded by a victory parade at 10 a. m. with prominent civilian and military officials reviewing the parade from the reviewing stand at Five Points.

Former Maj. Gen. Ed Smith, now of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company, will be the marshal of the parade and reserve Army and Navy officers will be in charge of organization.

All veterans of the district will be invited to participate in the parade and the ceremonies, which are sponsored by the Fifth District of the American Legion.

Manning Urges Machinery for Georgia Farms

Constitution State News Service.

BLAKELY, June 26—Jim Manning, candidate for Commissioner of Agriculture, told several hundred Early County farmers and businessmen here Wednesday that Georgia farmers must have more machinery if they are expected to compete with Western farmers.

"In this campaign," Manning said, "I have traveled throughout most of Georgia, and I have personally seen and talked with many of my Georgia farm friends, and I have seen their need for real help. And when I say help, I mean practical help.

"The farmers in every section of Georgia have told me the same story, they say that due to labor shortages and other factors, that they cannot hope to meet the demands for food products which are so critical at this time."

"I have traveled throughout the great Middle West, and I find that these farmers are using and have been using machinery on their farms for many years and their cost per acre is far below our costs, and these Middle Western farmers say that it would be impossible to farm without machinery."

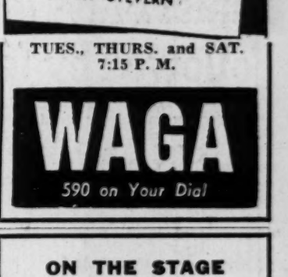

Manning further said: "Now, I say, that we cannot expect to compete with this type of farming with our backs and hands, it just cannot be done."

"After making a careful survey and giving much thought to the problems confronting our Georgia farmers, and having seen them and their wives and children trying to make a crop with their hands, I am thoroughly convinced that our Georgia farmers must be supplied with machinery, such as tractors, combines and other necessary farm machinery, even if the Federal and State Government has to finance it. If this not done immediately," Manning said, "we all face starvation, and our farmers face ruin.

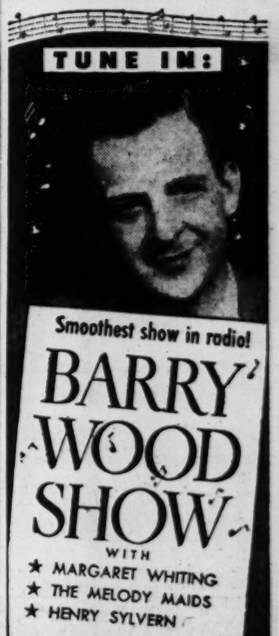

"When I am elected," Manning continued, "I say this must and will be done, there is nothing else that can be done along that line.

"This does not necessarily mean that the Federal and State Government will purchase every man in Georgia a tractor, but through a co-operative system, machinery so purchased and used by our Georgia farmers, will be used in large groups in many districts of the State, and the project can pay for itself."

Manning was introduced by C. C. (Tuck) Swann, businessman and former deputy sheriff.

ALL IN THE GAME
JACK TROY

Casey's on the Job Over the weekend Brooklyn Pilot Leo Durocher announced a plan to rely on five pitchers for the balance of the season. He didn't mean five a game, however, as was the case on Monday and Tuesday against the Cincinnati Reds.

But there's aid for a staggering pitching staff.

Casey, mighty Casey, is advancing from the bullpen as he did in the days of yore (1941 prior to the call of service), and there is promise that his effective relief pitching will save another Brooklyn pennant all over again.

Hugh Casey, of Buckhead, has been featured in the news for the past few days. He saved two important games, going 8 2-3 innings against the St. Louis Cardinals and 4 2-3 innings against the Reds. In each case he was credited with the victory.

Just like the Casey of 1941 in performance, albeit he is now 33 and admits that three years in the Coast Guard took their toll of his wind and the hop on his fast ball. Nothing has happened to a heart as big as Casey's massive midriff.

Casey fights for the Brooklyn cause wherever he happens to be—bench, bullpen or mound.

Only Tuesday Umpire Bill Stewart accomplished what St. Louis and Cincinnati couldn't. Stewart got him out. Seems Casey was making too much noise on the Dodger bench.

Casey's fine relief pitching, coming at a time when the Dodgers really needed it, bears out what Durocher predicted in the Spring.

Disregarding the service years and the added Casey girth, Durocher said he believed the big right-hander would again be the best relief pitcher in the National League.

He's the same unruffled Hughie, the Dodger writers say. They hit him all right but when the chips are down Casey manages to stave off the opposition's big threats.

It's a great help to a manager's success to have a boy like Casey, mighty Casey, ready to come to the rescue with a mad pennant scramble in prospect.

Giants Go All Out All reason vanishes when a professional football team gives a lineman a $19,000 contract, $2,500 bonus for signing and tops it with two years of college tuition.

DeWitt Coulter, Army's former All-American tackle who had planned to play end for Georgia Tech, assuredly was one of the country's leading tackles for the past two seasons.

But Coulter, according to all calculations, should be twins if he actually received from the New York Giants such terms as reported above. A lineman, unless he is an end of the Don Hutson type, isn't figured to have that sort of crowd appeal.

It is, of course, too alluring for a boy to turn down, as much as he would like to follow his original plans. Coulter had enrolled at Tech and was due back from Fort Worth in July. Plans now include an early marriage and a pro football career, he has informed his old coach, Bob Woodruff, of Tech.

It may be that rivalry between the new All-America Conference and the National League is behind it all, but that's carrying cut-throat competition to a dangerous point. And, of course, the college is the loser.

The pay scale of pro linemen has been considerably lower than the figures quoted in the signing of Coulter. Maybe a new era is ahead for the men who pave the way for the ball carrier. Or maybe, as we said, all reason has vanished in the heated rivalry to sign players.

Now the Angel It turns out that Promoter Paul Jones, having eaten his cake, still has the French Angel for the remainder of a birthday celebration.

Jones hurdled another milestone this week.

"The big party will be Friday night at the City Auditorium when Maurice Tillet, the French Angel, meets Jack Dillon in the feature match. They say the Angel is the world's ugliest man, and I don't doubt it. But Dillon doesn't scare easily," Jones said.

Dillon, by the way, hasn't won any beauty prizes lately.

The French Angel, greatest box office attraction in wrestling, attracted the attention of scientists when he first came to this country. They studied his resemblance to the Neanderthal man. A flood of national publicity resulted. A hike in prices for wrestling appearances of the Angel was the general rule.

But such is not the case for the Angel's match with Dillon here. The regular prices will prevail, Jones pointed out, wishing to make this point clear.

"After all," he added, "it's really a birthday celebration, too."

At the last report, John L. Bradley had Jones admitting to being past 40.

"The other night when I was coaxed into a sprint race and finished third to Pete Demetros and John Smith, the cabbage salesman, I really felt like old age had overtaken me," the former Nebraska athlete admitted.

The Last Word Norman Wrigley incloses a clipping from a St. Louis paper about Badblud, the mythical umpire, and a typical argument with a manager, to-wit—

MANAGER: I just asked the base umpire and he says yer wrong.

BADBLUD: How kin he see from ware he's standing?

MANAGER: In other words, you'd rather be stubborn than be right.

BADBLUD: It's none of his business, anyway. I can't say that runner which he calt out at second was safe which he was.

MANAGER: I get it. You two are partners in crime.

BADBLUD: Dat's enough. Yer out. Now go ask him if you want to.

MANAGER: Ask him what?

BADBLUD: Ask him whether you can stay.

(The clipping is timely. At Chattanooga Tuesday night Field Umpire Red McCutcheon called a Chattanooga player out at first and Plate Umpire Etie reversed the decision, costing Atlanta two runs. In the ensuing argument Manager Ki Ki Cuyler and Catcher Mike Ulisney were banished.)

Lanier Plays Jackson at 5 P. M., Followed by Jesuit vs. Humes

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Yesterday morning's hard rain brought postponement of second-round games scheduled in the Southeastern High School Baseball Tournament of State Champions which will continue today with a twilight-night double-header at Ponce de Leon Park.

Lanier High, of Macon, and Jackson (Miss.) High, first-round losers, will clash in the opener at 5 p. m., and Jesuit, of New Orleans, and Humes High, of Memphis, both triumphant in their Tuesday frays, will match base hits at 8 p. m. under the lights.

Spectators who saw the Tuesday games figure the New Orleans club is about as close to a sure bet for the championship as anything can be in the uncertain field of sports. The boys from the Bayou country trimmed Lanier and sensational Charlie Bollinger, 4-3, in the best high school game seen here in many moons.

Three great pitching performances marked the first day of play with Bollinger fanning 11 men in eight innings despite the fact he lost his duel with Hugh Oser when a teammate threw the ball away at first base to allow the winning run to score.

Oser, a cool right-hander with plenty of smoke and a good curve ball, also gave up only six hits and struck out 10 to preserve his record of not having lost a game in two years. Lefty Bob Bilger shared the spotlight by allowing only three blows and fanning 13 as the Memphis club routed Jackson, 11-5, in a game marred by frequent errors.

The much publicized Harold (Tookie) Gilbert, of Jesuit, walked, hit a sizzler to shortstop, singled sharply to right center and flied to right in his four trips in the opener.

Billy Henderson, of Lanier, was by far the standout offensive star on opening night with his hitting and brilliant base running climaxed by a steal of home for the last Poet run.

The loser in the Jackson-Lanier game today will be eliminated, and the winner will engage the loser of the Jesuit-Memphis game on Friday, while the only unbeaten club will get a day of rest as the other pair battle it out for the right to play in the finals.

Grammar school children, high school baseball players and ladies are admitted for 25 cents, other students for 50 cents and men for 80 cents.

A number of big leagues scouts, including Jimmy Hamilton (Yankees) and Johnny Nee (Phillies), are on hand to see the talented youngsters in action.

Kelley To Coach At North Fulton

Assistant Coach Weddington Kelley, a star end at the University of Georgia in 1929-31, has been named to succeed Weyman H. Tucker, who resigned as head coach at North Fulton High School because of pressure of other school work.

Kelley, a professor of English at the school, has been assisting Tucker for the past several years.

Douglas G. MacRae, Principal of North Fulton, accepted Tucker's resignation with reluctance and paid high tribute to Tucker's work during his 11-year tenure. Lauding his achievement of winning a great majority of all contests played, MacRae praised Tucker for what he termed 'the more important work of making a great contribution to character development among the hundreds of boys with whom he has been associated."

Vols Beat Crackers in Opener, 4-2

McGowan Drops Ball As 2 Score

By F. M. WILLIAMS,
Constitution Staff Writer.

SULPHUR DELL, NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 26—Earl McGowan pitched well enough to win his twelfth ball game of the season here tonight, but he committed a two-run error in the seventh inning that cost him a 4-to-2 decision to Fast-ball Pitcher Dutch McCall and his Nashville Vol teammates. It was McGowan's fifth loss.

McGowan's error, on a throw from Morris Aderholt that would have retired the Vols without a tally, was the third the Crackers made during the game, and all three miscues cost runs.

McCall, like McGowan, is a southpaw who tied the Southern League strike-out record against the Crackers in an earlier game here this season, and he came within four whiffs of knotting the mark again Wednesday night.

13 CRACKERS WHIFF

He sent 13 Crackers back to the bench on strikes and walked six. The Crackers touched him for seven safeties but couldn't bunch them enough to do much damage.

Lloyd Gearhtart led off the first with a single to right and moved to third as Steve Collins and Babe Ellis drew walks. Cieslak bounced a high one that McCall fielded in time to get the Cracker clean-up hitter at first, but not in time to shut off the run at the plate.

The Vols surged into the lead in the third after two were out. McGowan hit Paul Gillespie with a pitched ball, but got McCall on strikes and forced Pete Thomassie to fly out to right. Bill Manning then doubled to right center and when Buddy Bates couldn't pick up the ball, Gillespie raced home and Manning went to third. George Stringfellow hit an infield single and Manning came home.

CRACKERS TIE SCORE

The Crackers tied it in the sixth with a minimum of effort. Cieslak beat out a hit to short, went to second on a wild pitch, stole third when McCall decided to wind up and came on home when Bates flied to left.

McGowan got two batters out in the seventh, but Roy Marion, an Atlanta boy, beat out a hit to second and Gillespie, also an Atlantan, singled to right. McCall drew a walk to load the bases.

Pete Thomassie hit an easy roller to Aderholt but McGowan let the throw get through his glove and both Marion and Gillespie scored.

Callins, Ellis and Cieslak all singled in a row to open the eighth, but the Crackers had to play it safe and it cost them even one more run. With the bases loaded, Sal Ferrara batted for Aderholt, who had struck out three times, and Ferrara couldn't shake the jinx that seemed to go with the fifth place hitter. He whiffed, also, and then Bates hit into a double play and it was curtains for the Crackers.

FOUR DOUBLE PLAYS

The Vols backed up McCall's hurling with four double plays that kept the Crackers from threatening more often.

Manager Ki Ki Cuyler and Mike Ulisney, who were ejected from the final game at Chattanooga, received notice that they had been fined $15 each, just before tonight's game.

Paul Crain is expected to oppose Leo Twardy in the second game of the series here Thursday night.

Last night's defeat cut the Cracker lead to nine games over the Vols.

DUCK CONGER, GEORGIA END STAR, SIGNS PRO CONTRACT WITH N. Y. YANKEES

Melvin (Duck) Conger, who showed every promise of becoming one of the University of Georgia's greatest ends in his second season with the Bulldogs before going into the Army in 1942, revealed exclusively to The Constitution last night that he had just signed a contract to play professional football with the New York Yankees of the American League.

A former Boys High star under Shorty Doyal, the ruddy-faced Conger, who now weighs 230 and expects to get down to 220 when practice starts next Fall at Spokane, Wash., disclosed that Frankie Sinkwich, most famous back in Athens' football history, who jumped the Detroit Lions to sign with the Yankees several months ago, was largely instrumental in his signing with the Gotham Club, which is backed by Dan Topping and his millions.

Sinkwich brought the contract to Atlanta with him and, after a long-distance conversation with Topping, the 26-year-old Conger agreed to terms. Duck previously had rejected offers from Miami and Los Angeles, he said. Conger did not disclose terms of the Yankee contract.

FAVORITES AGAIN—Tommy Barnes, left, winner of the 1941 State Amateur Golf Tournament last time the meet was held, and Frank Mulherin, the runner-up, are among the red-hot favorites to take the title in the 1946 tournament at the Capital City Country Club. Pro Giants Sign Coulter

Bob Woodruff, Line Coach at Georgia Tech said yesterday that DeWitt Coulter, the Army's all-America tackle last year, had signed to play with the New York Giants of the National Professional Football League this year.

Coulter who withdrew from West Point recently had announced he would enter Georgia Tech this Fall.

Woodruff said Coulter agreed to the Giant contract at his home in Fort Worth, Texas. Woodruff said he understood the contract called for $19,000 plus a bonus of $2,500 for signing.

Coulter confirmed the report of his signing with the Giants at Fort Worth. The agreement was reached Monday after a conference in Fort Worth with Wellington Mara, of the New York Club.

"In light of the fact that I plan to be married in about two weeks," he said, "I couldn't turn down the Giant offer. Too, they are going to help me to go on with my education and I plan to go to art school in New York."

Coulter said he would soon marry Miss Ruth Tindle, of Fort Worth, a former student at Masonic Home, where Coulter first won fame as a gridder and track weight man. They have been "going together" since they were in the ninth grade.

Coulter refused to confirm the report that the contract called for $19,000 plus $2,500 for signing. However, friends said that was the correct figure.

DEADLINE IS SET FOR LEGION CLUBS

AUGUSTA, June 26—(AP)—C. L. Edmunds, state athletic officer of the American Legion, announced today that June 30 is the deadline for qualifying junior Legion teams for the state playoffs in July. Club credentials should be submitted to him prior to that date.

Augusta's Battey Post Club will play an exhibition against an Atlanta Legion team as a feature of the State Legion Convention in Savannah July 8-10. The game will be held at Savannah's stadium the night of July 9.

Dot Kirby, Suggs Win In Western

DES MOINES, June 26—(AP)—Matching men's par on hilly, wooded Wakonda Club course, defending Champion Babe Didrikson Zaharias, of Denver, Col., crushed 18-year-old Jean Hutto, of Kansas City, 6 and 5, in Wednesday's second round of the Women's Western Open Golf Tournament.

The Babe's screaming drives left Miss Hutto four holes behind on the first nine and gave the champion a brilliant 36, one under men's par and three under women's standard 39.

Mrs. Zaharias did not drop a hole and the only time she was over men's figures was on the deciding thirteenth, which she halved with a one-over-par six.

Comedalist Louise Suggs, of Lithia Springs, Ga., staved off a back stretch bid by Lucile Robinson Mann, of Des Moines, to triumph, 3 and 1. Miss Suggs fired a one-under-women's-par 38 for a 2-up lead at nine holes and then had the Iowa veteran dormie five.

Mrs. Mann rallied to win three holes in a row, firing two successive birdies, but Miss Suggs finally clinched things on the 115-yard seventeenth.

Dorothy Kirby, of Atlanta, advanced to the quarter finals by defeating Catherine Fox Park, of Glen Ridge, N. J., 5 and 3.

Phyllis Otto, of Atlantic, Iowa, 1945 Western Amateur Champion, had trouble handing Kathleen Carey, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, a 3-and-2 defeat.

Comedalist Patty Berg, of Minneapolis, outlasted Betty Hicks, Chicago professional, 1 up on the eighteenth. The lead changed hands five times before the 1943 Open Champion holed a 20-footer for a deuce on the short seventeenth, to go 1 up.

In the upper bracket of Thursday's pairings Miss Suggs will meet Phyllis Otto while in the lower bracket Miss Kirby's match will be with Mrs. H. R. Staats, Davenport, Iowa.

Cocker Spaniel Is Given to GIs

Gene Ragland has been leading a dog's life, and it's all a dog's fault.

It started when Gene had The Constitution put a little five-line notice in Wednesday morning's paper on the sports pages saying he would give away a registered cocker-spaniel if someone would give it a good home.

All day yesterday Ragland's phone rang at the rate of five a minute, he says. He had calls from Athens, Cartersville, Cuthbert and many other places besides Atlanta, all wanting his cocker.

Gene finally gave the dog to Capt. Herbert C. Fabian, of the Atlanta Ordnance Depot, since the boys at Conley wanted him for a mascot.

P. S.—Gene finally had to take his phone off the hook. And says he has a greatly increased admiration for the power of the press.

Decatur Vs. Ordnance

Lee Richards' Decatur All-Stars will play the Ordnance Depot Flames at 3 p. m, Saturday on the Avondale High field. The Decatur team also will be seeking its second straight victory over Swanee in Swanee Sunday afternoon.

'WHERE IS BEN BROWN?'

Warren Wilson Rests Here Due to War Injury

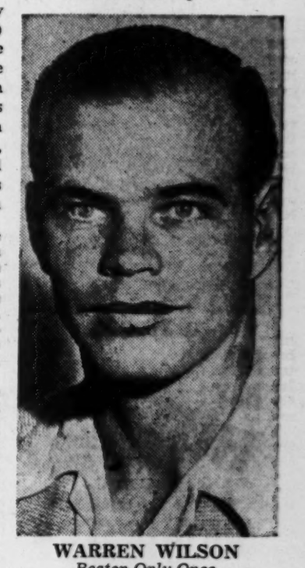

By THAD HOLT

Warren Wilson, the Atlanta heavyweight whose booming right hand has created a mild sensation in Eastern boxing circles since his discharge from the Navy last Jan. 28, is back home to rest an injured left shoulder he hurt in landing at Okinawa and not at all sure his physical condition will make it possible for him to continue a fight career which promised to lead him near the top.

Winner of 23 fights in as many starts (21 of 'em by knockouts) since his Naval discharge, the former Southern Conference heavyweight king from Clemson explained the seriousness of his war injury. "There is no pain when I shoot my left and connect, he said. "But just let me miss and the agony is so terrific it makes me ill, running all the way from shoulder to the elbow."

Warren wanted to know if there was interest here in a Wilson-Ben Brown fight and was told there would have been had Ben kept his promises and not tumbled off the wagon a couple of weeks ago. Brown now is in Washington trying to make a comeback, under the watchful eyes of his old manager, Sam (The Mumbler) Sobel.

Now 27, Wilson is quite sure he gave Uncle Sam the four best fighting years he ever will have. He is married and the father of four children and unless his arm comes around may forsake a game that has produced 52 victories for him in 53 professional fights. He avenged his single defeat to Bill Carr by knocking out Carr in a return bout at Boston. Warren is unmarked and has never been kayoed.

WARREN WILSON
Beaten Only Once

Wilson's contract is owned by Ben Gatins, prominent Atlanta and New York Sportsman. He has been working under the direction of Bill Daly, at Englewood, N. J., in the same stable with Lee Savold and Pat Comiskey and Freddie Schott. Wilson worked out often with these nationally known heavyweights and "held my own with 'em," he says.

Wilson thinks Tami Mauriello will be a soft touch for Louis because he is too easy to tag. Of all the fighters he has seen he would rate 35-year-old Joe Walcott, New Jersey Negro and father of eight children, as the best bet to beat the Brown Bomber.

Wilson made a terrific impression up East with his explosive right hand. He floored every opponent he hit. "I sure would like to fight that Brown," he said, in departing The Constitution Sport Department.

Chandler Licks Tribe For Yanks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Scoring seven runs for Davy "Boo" Ferris in the eighth inning of the nightcap, the visiting Boston Red Sox defeated the Detroit Tigers, 9 to 3, yesterday to gain an even break in a double-header after Detroit scored 15 runs in the first two innings to take the opener, 16 to 2, for Hal Newhouser. Hank Greenberg and Ted Williams hit home runs in each game to remain tied for the league lead at 19. Newhouser's win was his 13th.

In the longest game of the season in either major league, the Washington Senators Wednesday beat the Chicago White Sox, 4 to 3, in 16 innings. The game was won on an error by Bob Kennedy.

Making good use of their eight hits, five of which went for extra bases, the New York Yankees trimmed the Indians, 8-4, at Cleveland to make it easy for Spud Chandler to register his eleventh mound success of the season.

The St. Louis Browns drubbed the Philadelphia Athletics 11 to 4 to sweep a two-game series with Chet Laabs and Walt Judnich producing the home run power for the second consecutive night.

Mulherin Drops Cohen From State Golf Meet

By BERT PRATHER

Henry Cohen, suprise winner of the medal in Tuesday's qualifying round of the 1946 Georgia State Amateur Golf Tournament at the Capital City Country Club, was knocked out of the running for the title now held by Tommy Barnes, of East Lake, when steady-stroking Frank Mulherin, of the Augusta Country Club, defeated him, 5-4, in yesterday's championship division playoffs.

Cohen, a cousin of Mulherin and a resident of Augusta until five years ago when he moved to Atlanta, was pretty much out of the running from the start Wednesday. Mulherin set up a dead stymie on the first green and Cohen, attempting to curl his putt around it, hit Mulherin's ball, knocking it into the cup for a three and a win. From then on Mulherin held the upper hand.

Other favorites to come through with victories and places in the championship flight of sixteen were: Danny Yates, of East Lake, who downed Pete Barnes, a fellow clubmate, 7-6; Tommy Barnes, also of East Lake, who shoved little Buck Manley back into the first flight with a 4-2 decision; Dynamite Bill Goodloe, Valdosta, a 6-5 winner over Joe Wofford, Druid Hills; Arnold Blum, the Macon star, who mowed down James Bowen, of Tifton, and Gene Dahlbender, Jr. The latter whipped a fellow Druid Hills mate, Jim Flowers, 6-4.

The sixteen losers in Wednesday's championship division will comprise the first flight and will start match play today along with the championship boys and the remaining seven lower flights. One match will be played today, two Friday and the finals Saturday.

Play today will start at 9 a. m. with the eighth flight leading off. Tommy Barnes and Tom Clarke will be the first pair in the championship flight to shove off, being scheduled to appear at the No. 1 tee at 1:50 p. m. Most of the gallerites believe the Rosser Little-Mulherin match may be the top skirmish on the day's program. Little defeated Cliff McGaughey, 4-3, Wednesday and seemed to be very much on his game.

Giants Win, Push Bucs Into Cellar

Belting two triples and a single, Dixie Walker batted in three runs Wednesday and scored another to lead the pace-setting Brooklyn Dodgers to a 4-2 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds at Ebbetts Field.

Lefty Dave Koslo pitched the New York Giants out of the National League basement when he blanked the Pittsburgh Pirates with five hits as the Polo Grounders shoved the Bucs into the cellar with a 4-0 victory at New York.

The Philadelphia Phillies lost an opportunity to take fifth place, losing to the St. Louis Cardinals, 4 to 1, before an estimated 25,000. Ervin Dusak hit a homer in the fourth with Stan Musial on base to give the Cards the deciding runs.

Mort Cooper outlasted four Chicago pitchers as the Braves ended their present home stay by defeating the Cubs, 11-2, in the deciding contest of their three-game series at Braves Field. It was Cooper's third straight victory and his seventh of the year.

Mat's 'Ugliest' On Friday Card

Maurice Tillet, better known to the nation's wrestling fans as the French Angel, is expected to show Atlanta followers something new in the ring at City Auditorium Friday night, including an appearance that has earned him a title of wrestling's "ugliest man."

The Angel, at one time a seaman in the French Navy, will tangle with Black Jack Dillon, the Chattanooga rowdy, for one fall to a finish as the top bout on the all-heavyweight card.

Other bouts slated will see Dick Lever and Jack Hader take on Johnny Long and Joe Marsh in a two-out-of-three fall team match, and Nick Carter scrap with Ralph Garibaldi in a match limited to 20 minutes.

Jap Witness Testifies Of Averted Bombing

TOKYO, June 26—(AP)—A witness in the war crimes trial of 28 fallen Japanese leaders testified Wednesday that militarists in 1931 plotted to bomb the Diet and seize power, but said under cross-examination the bombs actually were "firecrackers" designed only to scare the lawmakers.

The prosecution witness, Konosuke Shimizu, in whose home the "bombs" were hidden, told the International War Crimes Tribunal they would "make a loud noise and not hurt anyone."

Another witness, Marquis Yoshichika Tokugawa, a pacifist, said he helped avert the incident by persuading Dr. Shumei Okawa, a plot ringleader now on trial, to give up the conspiracy.

PRINTED PATTERN

By ALICE WEST.

Contrasting sleeves are "stepped up" to glorify a slim-fitting, easy-to-wear woman's dress. Make it of stark white on a dark color for dramatic interest and use printed pattern 1695, sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46. Size 38 requires 2 3-4 yards of 39-inch for dress, 5-8 of 39-inch for contrast.

Directions are printed on each pattern piece to show you what it is, where it goes and how to match it to its mate.

Send 25 cents in coins, securely wrapped, your name and address clearly printed, size desired and pattern number to Pattern Service, The Atlanta Constitution, P. O. Box 5055, Atlanta, Ga.

A NORWICH PRODUCT

A TRILLION DOLLARS FOR BAR OF SOAP; OPA SAYS IT CAN HAPPEN HERE

Can you imagine paying $1,250,000,000,000 for a nickel bar of soap?

According to Alexander Harris, OPA Regional Administrator in Atlanta, if wild inflation got under way in the United States as it has in Hungary, that's just what it would cost.

Harris, emphasizing the urgent necessity for "holding the line" in prices, admitted this was a "fanciful proposition," but cited the pengo, Hungarian monetary unit, which has come down from a prewar value of 30 cents to about one-quadrillion of a cent.

OPA says it can happen here.
